Who goes there?

By Kris Barnes

"Agua Fria?" "Did you say Water Cold." "What's that?" "Who goes there?" That is the reaction many have when they hear our name. The 1,377 students and faculty who spend at least five hours a day, five days a week on our campuses, know just how special we are. It is nice to receive "National." recognition, but our presence of excellence has always been evident to us.

The students will change and new teachers will come as the others will leave. We will expand and revise, but our direction will never change. The faces will be different, of course, but the kind of students will always be outstanding as well as the administration supporting.

Knowing all of this is not enough. We will carry on the tradition of uniqueness embedded within the name Agua Fria Union High School. Not only will we shine on our campuses, but also in our community, state and nation. We want everyone to understand what Agua Fria is, and "Who goes there!"

Who's there

From just looking on campus it is hard to see who's doing what. A student's life has several different aspects, such as the academic, extra curricular activities, and also the social life.

Academics come first, or at least they're supposed to! The classes that students take at AF, in most cases, will determine their futures. So everyone works pretty hard. Senior, Diane Anderson says, "Putting my efforts to excel in academics will reward me when colleges are looking at my transcripts." Most of the students at AF feel this way.

The extra curricular activities going on around campus keep the students very busy, and gives them a little time away from homework. There are several clubs at AF, and one is perfect for someone. The sports take more effort and time than any other activity, mainly because sports are very important at AF. Among all the sports there is also one right for someone.

The social lives of the students at AF vary, from the cliques, to that close friend everyone has. Senior Beth Barber says, "That it is true that everyone here, no matter where they came from, gets along together. Students today still go to the movies, concerts, and of course, parties! "It's a real easy school to attend, and everyone makes you feel comfortable."

Shawna Guess shows that a student's life involves helping the faculty during registration.

Summer 1984

Whoo Had A Great Summer?

by Rae Anne Carr

As the class of 1984 graduated and the foreign exchange students left, summer finally began.

Students were on their way to Boys' and Girls' State, Disneyland, Mazatlan, South America, Europe, the Olympics, and some even stayed to enjoy Arizona's warm sun. No matter where they were — it was SUMMER!

Summer, that magical word which brings to mind getting sun tans (or burns), being able to have parties seven days a week, watching soaps, tubing down the Salt River, sleeping late, and especially not having homework.

Unfortunately, most did not have the picture perfect, relaxed vacation. It was off to work or summer school, working on a correspondence course, worrying about which college applications to send, practicing pom, cheer, band, or football, searching for insects to use in the infamous Biology 3-4 collection; and for the class of 1988, it was "psyching up" for high school.

But, all too soon, summer came to an end. The registration information signs started to appear, "School Days" sales began, seniors started having their portraits made, and the desire for school to begin crept in.

Whoo's Speaking Another Language?

by Monica Viteri

Not all the faces at Agua Fria have the "American Look."

There were 17 students from six foreign countries attending AF: Nicole Brenneke (12, West Germany), Ann Jondot (12, France), Jesper Poulsen (12, Denmark), Henning Rogge (12, West Germany), Christian Bulow (12, West Germany), Thorsten Wiener (12, West Germany), Andreas Funke (11, West Germany), Regan Pylman (11, Great Britain), Heiko Muller (11, West German), Christian Titze (11, West Germany), Stephanie Funke (10, West Germany), Michelle Brenneke (10, West Germany), Clara Jondot (9, France), Tina Zinzuvadia (9, India), Raju Zinzuvadia (11, India), Katrina Darons (9, England), Luz Perez (9, Mexico), and Manuel Barudos (9, Mexico.)

Some of these students are foreign exchange students and others have moved to the United States with their families. In either situation, being in the U.S. is excitingly new and educational. "I think that the U.S. is the most exciting country I've ever been to because the U.S. has so many different ways of living and opinions. Denmark generally has one type of lifestyle," observed Poulsen.

There are many differences between schools in the states and schools in other countries. Some of these differences, the students really like.

"There is a lot of school spirit at this school. In Germany, there is hardly any at all," said Wiener.

"I like the afterschool activities and sports and competing against other schools," said Funke.

"I think that all the teachers are excellent compared to the ones in Denmark, because over here they seem to be more interested in the school. In Denmark, teachers think of school as a place of work," comments Jesper Poulsen.

Of course there are aspects of American schools which they do not care for.

"I dislike pep assemblies, I have no school spirit — I can't scream!" complained Muller.

"I dislike the homework. Over here, you have to do it or you get into big trouble" stated Funke.

"There's bad food in the cafeteria!" added Christian Bulow. The students have mixed feelings towards American culture.

"The people here have pride and spirit; for instance, the national anthem is played every morning. In Germany, they don't do that," Muller said.

"I don't think that patriotism in America is good sometimes because people can be so caught up in their own country that they are not open to other nations. Then, if someone disagrees with the (U.S.) government's ideas, no one wants to listen."

Even though, "no place like home," is in most of their minds, the adjustment and the experience will pay off in the long run Wiener suggested, "There are a lot of benefits for students. They are exposed to different schools, languages, lifestyles, people, and ideas. With this, they can see the world in a different way. If there is a country that has a high percentage of its students involved in an exchange program, its relationship with the other country could benefit too."

Billy Moore Days

Whoo's In The Billy Moore Days Events?

by Monica Viteri

Nine talented senior girls entertained a packed audience in the AF auditorium at the annual Billy Moore Days Pageant on October 20th.

Shawna Guess was crowned Miss Billy Moore at the competition's end. The other participants were Diane Anderson, Kim Cashman, JoAnne Chapa, Cheri Johnson, Michelle Moldovan, Ester Pariga, Corina Perez, and Michelle Scism.

The talent division of the contest consisted of five dances and four songs. Contestant Diane Anderson said, "Even though the form of talent is the same, the final outcomes are unique."

In addition to capturing the Miss Billy Moore title, Guess was named Miss Congeniality. Cashman took the first runner-up award and Moldovan took the second runner-up award. "It was an experience. I had a great time. Everyone got along and there were no hard feelings," stated Moldovan.

Perhaps assistant principal and master of ceremonies, O.K. Fulton best sums up this year's events, "It is my opinion that events such as Billy Moore Days and the involvement of many people towards the making of a successful event is incalculable in community good will and of people living together in harmony. I hope it lasts on the Westside another 1,031 years."

This year marks the 31st annual Billy Moore Days events. Billy Moore Days originated in 1955, when Francis Aragon changed the Ms. Westside talent contest to The Miss Billy Moore Pageant, named after the founder and first resident of Coldwater (now Avondale), Arizona.

The events of Billy Moore Days consist of the golf tournament, the 10K and 2 mile Run For Fun, the carnival, and the parade. The first, second and third place floats were the Science Club, the Freshman class and the Seniors, respectively.

Royalty Crowned

by Vanessa Cunningham

Homecoming night finally arrived and the game was to be played. The eastside bleachers were filled with faculty, parents, alumni, and students of AFHS.

At halftime the floats were paraded around the field in front of the bleachers for everyone to see.

The highlight of homecoming was the announcement of King and Queen. Alumni King Nacho Cano and Queen Lisa Martinez were on hand to crown the new titleholders King

Tom Bushong and Queen Alicia Solis.

The senior attendants were Kristen Shears, David Solis, Jere Sessions, Lisa Jimenez, Steve Brown, and Kim Cashman. Junior attendants were Tait Sorenson and Monica Viteri. Sophomore attendants were Terri Bustos and Leddy Ortega. Freshman attendants were Georzelynette Reed and Tyrone Anderson.

Homecoming ended successfully as Agua Fria beat the Arcadia Titans 14 to 7.

Whoo's Into Fairytales?

by Vanessa Cunningham

"Fairy Tales" was the theme for Homecoming, 1984. However, it was no fairy tale that homecoming got AFHS students and faculty involved. It was a fact.

"I liked seeing a lot of people getting involved," Matt Lopez, junior, said.

Reaction to the week was positive.

"I liked homecoming because it made the weeknights more exciting and it was good way to meet girls," Charlie Kimes, senior, added.

In the traditional dress up days many participated. The days consisted of Little Kid Day, Nerd Day, Twin Day, Character Day, and Color Day. During the evenings, float building started slowly early in the week, but by working hard, each class came up with great looking floats.

"I thought it was neat, how the classes got together to work on the floats during the week," Kirsten Johnson, junior, said.

The traditional bonfire was held on the football field the night before the big game. This year, unlike past years, only the participants in the races were allowed on the field. The same spirit was achieved even though it was different. Bonfire activities consisted of the shoe find, ten legged race, and the obstacle course. At the end, the Arcadia Titan dummy was burned, the school song was played, and excitement over the next days events grew.

Whoo's Eating Lunch?

by Rae Anne Carr

Having a time for lunch during the school day is a state law. Agua Fria has a full class period (55 minutes during a regular schedule) for lunch, as compared to 30 minutes at many other schools (such as Brophy and Xavier).

This time means many things to AF students. It's a time to: finish homework, run home to check the mail, read in the library, visit with friends, sleep; or sometimes just eat.

When asked what she used her lunch period for, Lori Ritchey, senior, replied, "Study, because there's nothing else to do." She is among the students who reluctantly accepted a schedule with third or sixth hour lunch. There has been a lot of controversy about the shorter menu and ordering time (one-half hour) given to these students.

Jamie Maslyn, sophomore, complains about her "much too late" sixth hour lunch period, "There aren't any people out there and there isn't the same food . . . and they don't have the activities that they do fourth and fifth hours, like Homecoming and Spring week noontime activities. It's boring!"

Of course, no matter what hour students have lunch, the main purpose is for them to consume food. In general, food has become a popular subject in the U.S. It seems that everyone is trying to eat the right things, to avoid cancer (if that is possible) or become mentally and/or physically stronger. Some people are even trying to avoid food altogether in order to slim down to the faddish "thin."

Most people love the sight and taste of food; and for some, it is more than just a source of energy — it's an addiction. "I love food more than life itself!" Liz Lessard, junior, exaggerates about her attitude towards eating.

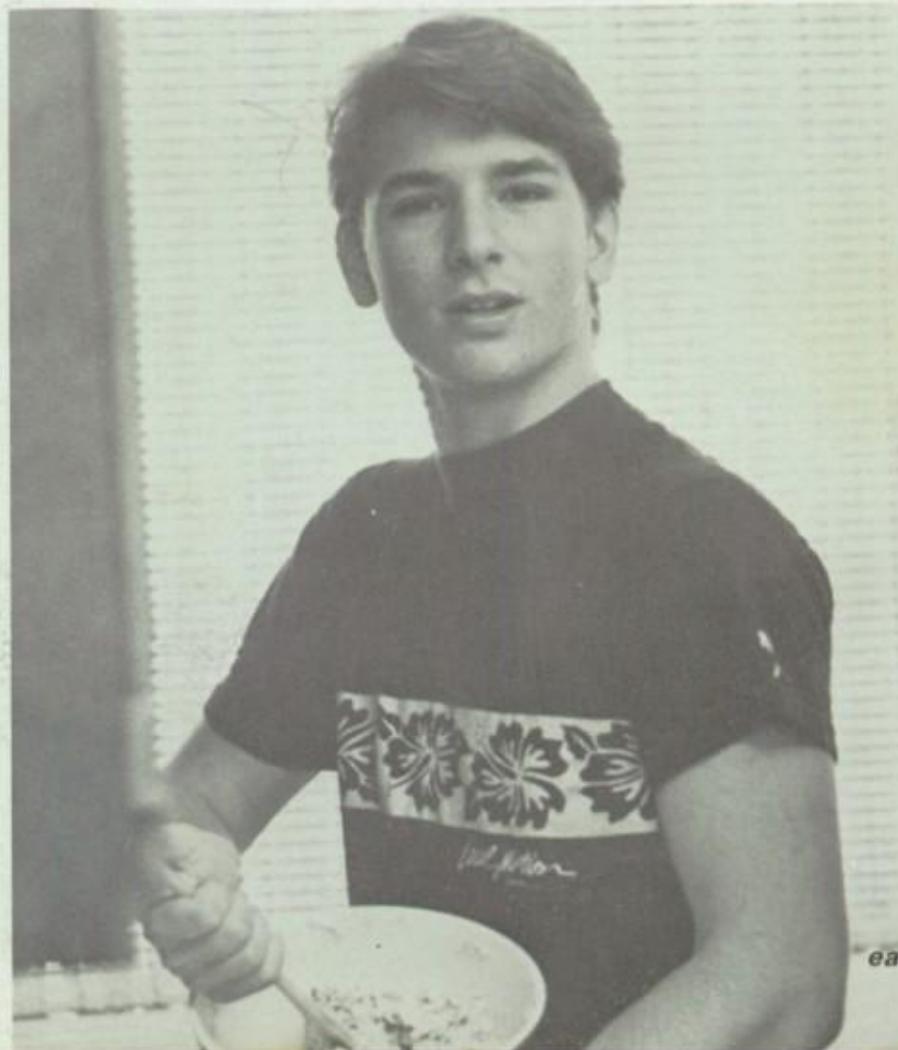

Kym Hayes, senior, has a unique attitude towards eating, "I eat because I have to eat to keep healthy. If I had a choice, I wouldn't eat because food isn't interesting to me."

Right: Rachel Brockey, junior, is lunching in the school cafeteria.

Pep Assemblies And Dances

Whos Got AF Spirit?

by Dia Jorgenson

Everyone needs pep and high spirit, and Agua Fria has plenty to go around. This was shown at the Friday pep assemblies. Top spirit awards have gone to both the senior and sophomore classes during class competition; but when AF came together, the gym really shook.

The assemblies were led by the cheerleaders who did their best to get everyone involved, but unfortunately there were some who just didn't care. "I wish we could get the football players more involved," said cheerleader, Jill Hegedus. "We set it up for them."

The first game of the season was at Lake Havasu (a four and a half hour drive), so during fifth hour, the school gathered in the student parking lot to send the players off. The band played the fight song as the team's bus drove through their "Jump in the Lake, Havasu." sign.

Other uncommon assemblies were the "rusty nail" where the band played and the spirit line chanted as the student body paraded around campus, ending in front of the gym. Also, there was an 8 am rally with the cheerline on the roof of the gym.

Pep assemblies have definitely been more than an introduction of the teams or time out of class—they have been a reflection of Agua Fria pride, spirit, and joy.

As the pep assemblies were a preliminary show of love for Owls, the after game dances were a post celebration. They also were a great fund raiser for the sponsoring organizations.

After each home football and basketball game, people lined up in front of the cafeteria. Attitudes were high and everyone really enjoyed themselves.

There was a change this year. Instead of having different DJ's at each dance, the school made a contract with one person. There was a variety of music played but the argument of "there's too much of 'that' music," still was heard. The solution to this was, "bring the music you want to hear and it will be played."

One of the larger problems was that students couldn't get guest passes. This contributed to the low attendance of students dating people who have graduated or who go to another school. Assistant Principal O.K. Fulton had told many students that there just isn't enough room for everyone to bring a guest and if he makes one exception, he'll have to give passes to everyone who wants one.

Some of the dances had themes. The dance sponsored by Pom and Cheer was a costume ball. Student Council's Homecoming dance Chairman, April Wilson, tied in with the Fairytale theme by "if you've ever dreamed it, come and be it!" The annual Christmas Formal was given the theme of "Old Fashioned Christmas" by Student Council. The Junior-Senior Prom also adds to this list of special occasions.

Overall, the dances were an enjoyable and memorable part of the year.

Mod, Punk, And New Wave

British Invasion

by Monica Viteri

Like most every other type of music and fashion trend that has hit America, Mod, Hardcore, and New Wave began in England.

Many of today's fads are retro-trends — they began a long time ago and now are updated for the 80's.

In the 60's, when American teens were involved in the Anti-Vietnam, hippy stage, English teens were engaged in the Modern movement. Their goal was to be the best in dress, dance, and style. Today's Mods still keep up with their high standards.

Most male Mods wear straight legged pant suits with skinny ties and penny loafers. They also wear 50's style, baggy pants, trenchcoats and parkas. Some female Mods wear cardigan sweaters with T-shirts or large mens' shirts underneath and cropped pants or skirts. They also wear Marilyn Monroe type outfits.

Another way to spot a Mod is by his or her pins with names of groups on them such as: The Specials, The Jam, General Public, Madness, The English Beat, Phsychedelic Furs, B-Movie, Modern English and the Style Council.

Favorite pastimes of Mods are: having scooter rallies, parties, going to gigs and dancing at clubs.

The Mod movement is steadily growing in Phoenix. Few people know about Mods or what they stand for, but many like their music and fashion.

Punk (hard core) began in England in the 70's and has made a strong comeback in the U.S. in the 80's. Generally, punk is an attitude. Punkers are against the establishment and authority. This is one of the reasons why punkers look so wild. Another reason is that they want to stand out and be noticed. Looking wild can mean anything from a change in haircolor or wild hairstyles to wearing leather, chains and safety pins.

Some punk groups are: Black Flag, Social Distortion, Circle Jerks, J.F.A. (Jodie Foster's Army), Mighty Sphinxter, Vandals, Suicidal Tendacies, Junior Achievement, T.S.O.L. (True Sounds Of Liberty), Fear, Meat Puppets, 45 Grave, O.N.S. (Our Neighbors Suck), H.C. (Heavy Convictions), and of course, The Sex Pistols.

Garry Merrill of Zia Records in Phoenix says, "Many hardcore bands started out political, but they have gotten too commercial and have become concerned with making money. A lot of the hardcore element is still present in the underground movement."

Favorite pastimes for hardcore listeners are skateboarding and going to shows at Knights of Pythius Hall, The Mason Jar, and other small concert halls or clubs.

Ordinarily, New Wave music has a unique, energetic, danceable sound that no other type of music has had before. Some examples are: The B-52's, Missing Persons, Flock of Seagulls, Go-go's, Devo, Duran Duran, Oingo Boingo, Bow Wow Wow, Human League, Romeo Void, and The Eurythmics.

Most New Wavers dress temporarily with neon colors (fluorescent yellow, green, and orange), cropped pants, large loose skirts, and oversized mens' shirts and sweaters. They also wear: flat heel shoes, cut-off colored nylon, big belts, and vintage clothing.

Even if only as a fad, the British influences are apparent on AF campus. Some students really are Mods, Punks, or New Wavers, while others will simply drift to the next style. The land passes down to us.

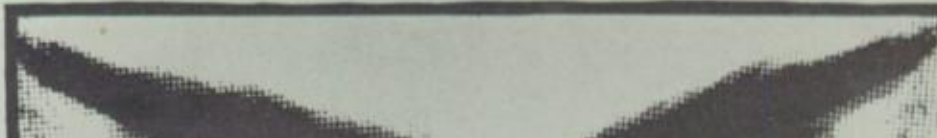

In her hair style, April Wilson, (senior), displays punk fashion.

A Christmas Carol

Bah! Hum Bug!

by Vanessa Cunningham

"A Christmas Carol" performed by the students of Agua Fria, brought the Christmas spirit sooner than usual.

"The play got a lot of us in the Christmas mood. The practices were hardwork, but when it all came together it was a lot of fun. In the future, I hope we can do more Christmas plays," said, Timm Rogers, junior.

As the play opened the actors were frozen in position waiting to come to life. From the beginning, the special effects held the audience's attention with the falling snow, smoke, and blackouts for scene changes.

"Seeing 'A Christmas Carol' was the perfect way to start off the Christmas season. The scenes, special effects and the acting were really great. I thought the ghosts were the best," said Kelle Maslyn, senior.

"A Christmas Carol" written by Charles Dickens is a story about an old man, Ebenezer Scrooge, who has no Christmas spirit or good will towards anyone. Throughout the play he learns what the meaning of Christmas is all about and what love means between people.

There were many opportunities for students to perform in "A Christmas Carol" since there was a variety of parts. The main character was portrayed by Regan Pylman. Other cast members were as follows: Todd Daggert- Fred Hollywell, Melissa Fryman- Janet Hollywell, John Rayner- Bob Crachit, Diane Anderson- Mrs. Crachit, Andy Hill- Tim Crachit, Chris Guess- Peter Crachit, Charley Wolfe- Marley's Ghost, Carrie Mathews- Ghost of Christmas Past, Timm Rogers, Jack Malysa- Ghost of Christmas Yet to come, John Munoz- Young Scrooge, Liz Lessard-Belle, Eric Ahart-Boy Scrooge. Also performing were the Christmas Carolers throughout the performance.

The play was directed by Byron K. Judge, drama director at Agua Fria.

Who Supports AF?

by Kris Barnes

AF is involved in 19 sports at the freshman, JV, and Varsity levels. These sports have individual budgets set by the AIA. Being active in these sports not only takes money, but also support from different people.

Athletic Director O.K. Fulton is the communication line between AF and the schools AF competes against.

When asked how important sports are to school? Cheryl Zidow said, "Very important, because it helps students learn to get along with each other as well as with other people." Zidow, assists Mr. Fulton with guaranteeing the eligibility and transportation of AF athletes. Zidow is also one of the 8 coaches on staff, who besides having a full day of classes, spend hours after school, at practice pushing the athletes to their limit to they can do there best in competition.

Teachers show their support by coming to the games and, when necessary letting the players out of class early on game days. It is important that fellow students show their support by wishing the members of a team "Good Luck" or just by coming to see them play. The parents show support by understanding why their kids aren't home for dinner every night, and also by providing rides to and from practices. Referees, trainers, and the medical staff are a vital part of AF sports too.

At AF athletes are taught "Honor first, win or lose" Through the wins and losses of the year, they have up held the motto. The athletes experience the joy of winning, the disappointment of losing, and sometimes unfortunately the pain of injury. All of these experiences would mean nothing, without the people "who support AF."

On the practice tee, at Eric Wohler, works on his swing form.

Pete Eichorn, No. 8 just headed the ball during the AF vs Deer valley at the Skyline tourney.

Buck Simington gets a single leg and he's working for a take down.

Swimmers take time out from the Casa Grande swim meet, to relieve the tension.

AF freshman, Tim Phipps, tackled at the 1st down, during the AF vs. Casa Grande game.

Owls Fall Short Of Play Offs

by Sheryl Reese

Although the season began with a string of three impressive victories, injuries and a tough schedule took their toll on the Owls. The squad finished the season with a record of 6-4. The record and not making playoffs, was a disappointment to second year Coach Tom Wheatley.

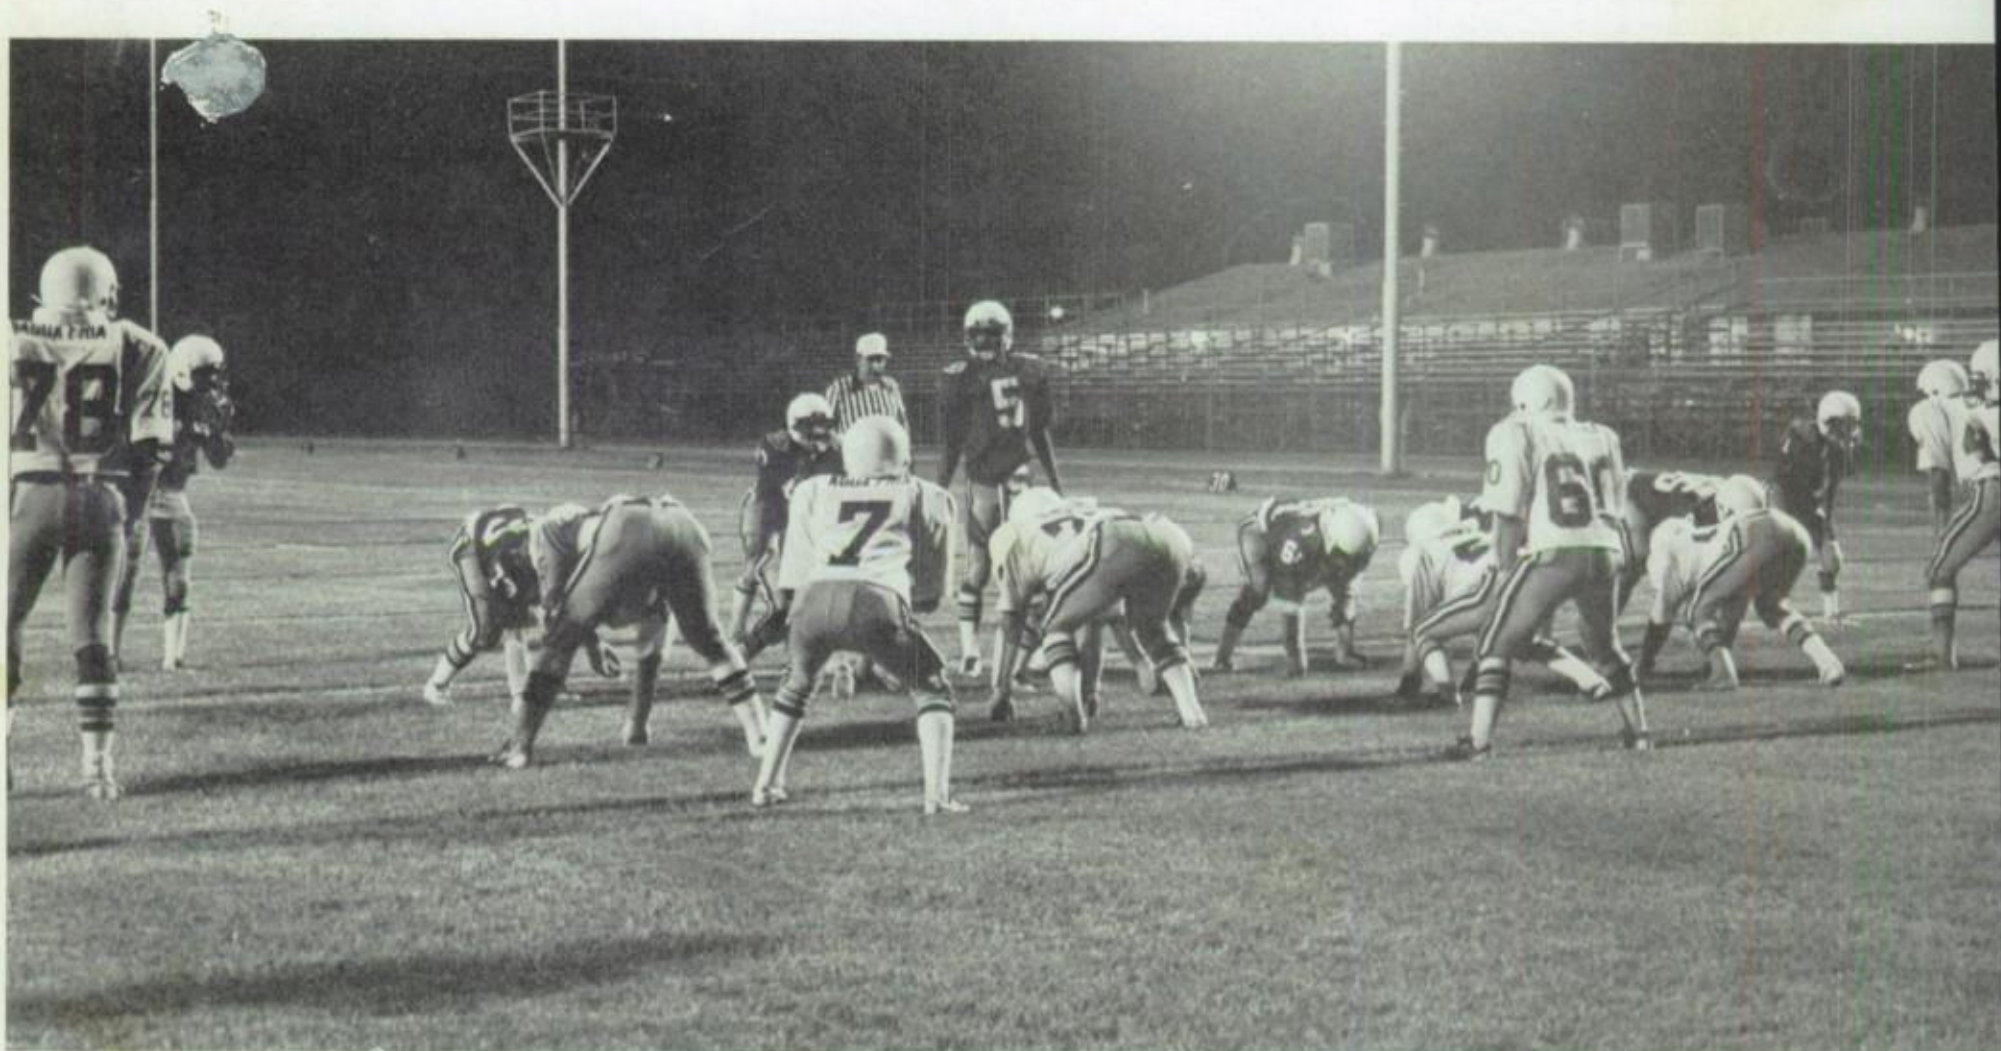

"The first half of the season we played great, but after the Washington game we started to go down hill, but we never gave up," commented senior Steve Brown, quarterback. After losing three consecutive key games, the Owls came back to defeat Arcadia. Arcadia was the team's most important game, because in order for them to better their chances of making playoffs, they had to win. The Owls went on to defeat Carl Hayden, but fell to a tough Tolleson team, which ended their chance of obtaining the Metro A Football title. "Most of the games we lost, could have been won, but we had a few breakdowns," commented third year letterman, Tom Bushong. "We did better than most people expected us to do," also stated senior Jose Reyna.

Even though the team's relative size was not a strong point, its quality players and strong leadership made up for it. "There was real good senior leadership and closeness of the team," Coach Wheatley said.

This year's Most Valuable Senior and Offensive Back of the Year went to Bobby McGinty, the team's leading scorer and rusher. Most Valuable Lineman went to Tom Bushong, who made champion's club every game and is third in tackling. The Spark Plug Award went to Steve Brown, the team's leading passer and interceptor. Defensive Back of the Year went to Carlos Moreno, who is second in interceptions and tackles. Finally, Most Improved went to Hector Rivas, the team's top tackler and Kevin Galloway. Some other assets for the Owls this season were Chris Cole and Mark Phillip's two-way starting, Scott Muse's consistent punting, Roy Samaniego's field goals, and the flexibility of both Sean Earl and Sean Yohe, to play any position asked of them. "It was a real pleasure to coach this team and good luck to a fine group of seniors," added Coach Tom Wheatley.

Freshmen Learn Basic Skills Hill Stresses Concept

By: Alicia Solis and Elizabeth Zutell

"This year's team worked real well together, and that's a key to a successful season," said David Hill, the junior varsity football coach. The team's record was 6-2.

"The players are hardworking and have a great desire to win. They play very well as a team. I receive total commitment from all the players, which enables them to overcome any odds," stated Coach Hill.

Coach Hill, 5-year coach says, "I played football during high school and enjoy the sport. I also enjoy the opportunity to work with young men and women. I like the satisfaction of being able to have a good positive influence on the players, I come in contact with. I get along with the team real good; we have a mutual respect for one another."

"I feel academics are very important, and that a football player needs to do well in the classroom because it will definitely carry over on the football field. If we can pick up a couple of key players, I feel we can have an even better season than this year," commented Coach Hill.

The most important reason for having a freshmen football team is to teach the players the important, basic skills of high school football. Bob Trout, this year's coach, did exactly that. "They were taught everything, now they have to execute," stated Trout.

One of the biggest problems of the team was their lack of size, they were outweighed by every opposing team. But their speed was an advantage. The year was successful in terms of the turnout of players. Thirty-three boys "learned football and what it takes. In a few more years of football and some weight gaining, the team should turnout to be good varsity players."

Coach Satisfied With Team's Performance. Much Improvement Seen

By Dan Mrkvicka

Both the boys and the girls cross country teams ended their seasons with a respectable records and much satisfaction. "The boys have a good team this season and have improved greatly since last season," commented Coach Dave Clark. Shawn Britain, a sophomore, helped lead the Owls to a 3-8 divisional record. Shawn is the No. 1 runner on the team and he has finished first at several of the meets. "I think that we have improved this year and we will do even better next year," commented David Epplin. Overall, Coach Clark, was satisfied with the season and saw a great deal of improvement among the boy's.

The girls cross country team, however, is the first ever at Agua Fria. The girls did extremely well against the tough competition from other schools. "I am very satisfied with their performance this season," commented Coach Clark. Gabriell Nickele, sophomore, was the girls' top runner. She helped lead the Owls to a divisional record of 3-2. "It wasn't the best for the records, but it was for myself and the others because we all improved our times," commented senior, Kristin Shears. Coach Clark felt that all the runners did their best and he hopes to see even more improvement next year.

'When It Came Time To Swim They Were Ready' Boys Capture Metro Division AAA

by Sheryl Reese

At the beginning of the season, Coach Sonny Culbreth wasn't sure whether or not there would be a boys swim team. However, there was a team, and the members were winners, finishing with a 7-3 record. After some recruiting, Coach Culbreth came up with 13 boy's, enough to form a team. "The majority of the boy's had never swam competitively before, but with individual improvement, they made the difference," commented Coach Culbreth.

The Owls most outstanding meets this season were against Sunnyslope and Thunderbird. Even though the team fell to both of these teams, individual times were improved and school records set. The teams most outstanding swimmer, Cam McCown, presently holds six of the eight school records. McCown holds the 200 freestyle, 200 IM, 50 freestyle, 100 backstroke, and the 100 butterfly.

The boy's team ended their season by winning the Metro Division AAA Championship. "Everybody improved and all the boy's made it to finals the next day," commented Coach Culbreth. The 400 freestyle relay broke the old school record by one and a half seconds, with a time of 3:33.7. Sean Newcomer and Norman Harris both achieved their best times. The two divers, Eddie Morton and Ricky May, took third and fourth at divisionals, which qualified them for state. Cam McCown, went to State, seated third in the 200 IM, and came out with a first place. "Every Owl swam his best time except for one or two who had slight injuries," Coach Culbreth commented.

As he comes up for a breath, Sean Newcomer prepares to finish with a first place in the 100 yard freestyle.

A Great Fantastic Season

Former Owl Swimmer Coaches Team

by Sheryl Reese

A former Agua Fria swimmer, Laurie Davis, coached the girls varsity swim team to a record of 6-4. "The girls showed a lot of personal improvement, dedication, and good sportsmanship," commented Coach Davis. The Owls most outstanding meet was against Horizon. There was a large amount of time dropped and personal improvement. However, Davis emphasized, "It doesn't matter whether you win or lose; what matters is that you improve your individual time."

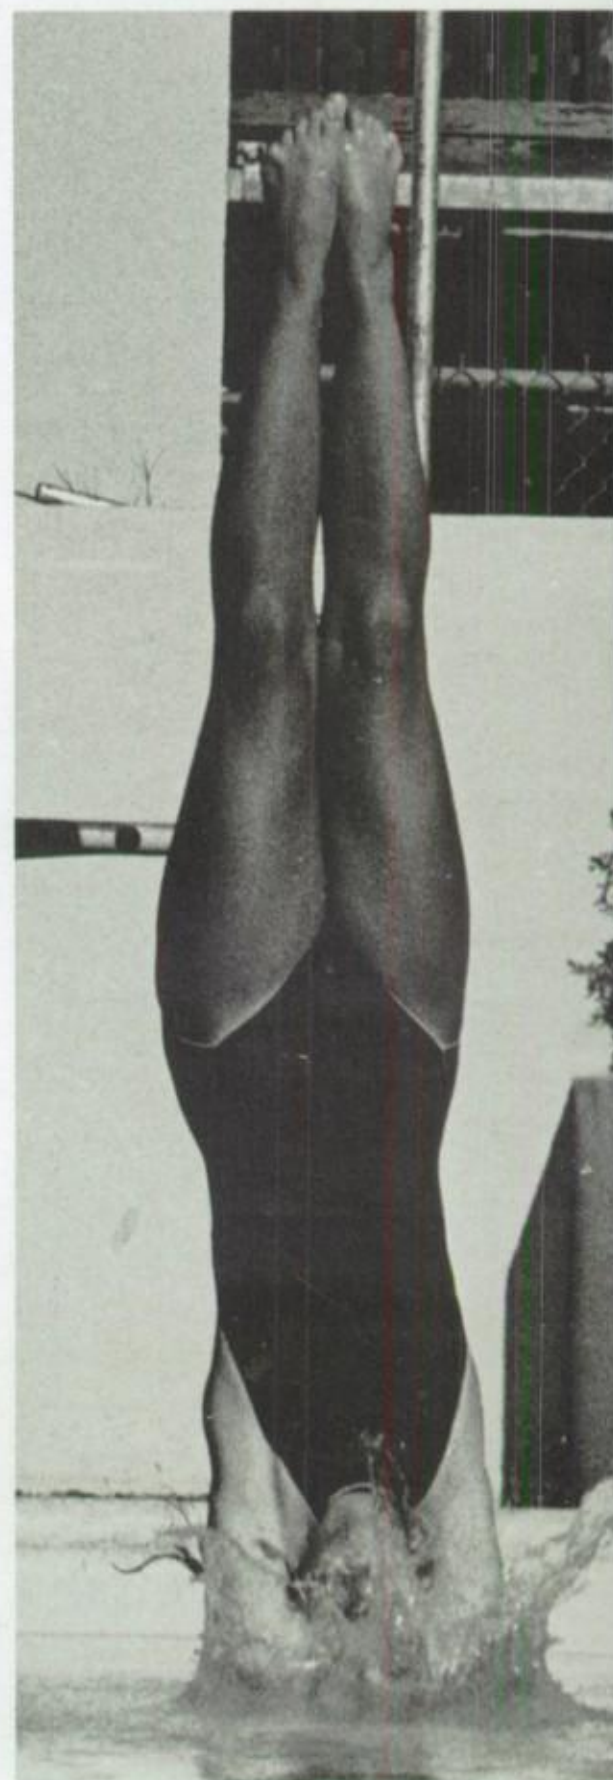

The team placed second at divisionals, which qualified 8 girls for state. Julie

White and Tiffany Morrissey both set school records. Julie broke her own breaststroke record with a time of 1:13.23, and her own individual Medley record with a time of 2:25.45. Tiffany also broke her own 100 butterfly record with a time of 1:04.70.

Davis at the beginning of the season, set out to teach the girls not only what a hard workout was, but also individual growth, team spirit, and individual prosperity. "I felt that each of the girls came to realize their own personal worth by seeing how they did through the season," added Coach Davis.

Coach See's Improvement For Next Year Golfers Gain Experience

By Ruth Cunningham

This year the girls' golf team consisted of mostly rookies, who had no experience in the game. Stacy Baker, a returning varsity member, played the No. 1 position on the team. "Young, but with great potential, is the team," commented OK Fulton, athletic director. The girls ended the season with a record of 3-8.

The boys golf team coached by Wayne Bateman, had many returning players. Eric Wohler, a returning varsity member, played the No. 1 position on the team. The boys ended the season with a record of 17-10. "The team had a good season and we were competitive with everybody we played. Everybody improved from the beginning of the season to end and the returning players improved from the previous year," commented Coach Bateman.

The team played in the Metro Divisional tournament, finishing seventh place overall. "I think the golf season this year was very good. We had quite a few guys play some great golf and this should make an even better team next year. Mr. Bateman is a great golf coach, with a lot of patience and a great knowledge of the game," added senior Charlie Kimes.

Attitude and Hard Work Lead to Divisionals

'We Played as a Team'

by Tammy Curtis

The girls varsity volleyball team ended their season with an overall record of 5-11.

As her first year of coaching varsity volleyball, Coach Leslie Anderson's personal goal was to make divisionals.

The Owls' hardest competition this season was against Arcadia, Tolleson, and Cactus. The team placed fourth at the Chandler tournament, and by doing well the rest of the season, the squad qualified for divisionals.

"Getting to divisionals was achieved by cooperative attitudes, willingness to work hard, and having the courage to set their own goals," commented Coach Anderson. To prepare for the season, Anderson watched Olympic volleyball, set up drills, and worked on strategies.

The team had hard practices, two and a half hours a day Monday through Friday, but Anderson emphasized that their pride in themselves, the team, and in the school, helped them win. "They represented the school very well and are proud of it," stated Anderson.

Stephanie Vaughn was picked for the second team all division. Erica Perkins and Elena Wuthier were honorable mentions.

"I feel that the season went very well," commented Elena.

Freshmen Progress Skill-Wise Much Improvement Seen

by Elizabeth Zutell and Tammy Curtis

The JV Volleyball team had an outstanding season. The Owls two months of practice paid off, when they ended the season with a 10-2 record. "The season was a great success, but overall it was too short," commented Coach Mike Mahon. Mahon prepared for the season well in advance. At school registration he arranged for all the players to have their lockers together. "I think my locker plan worked, because the girls got along well together both on and off the court," expressed Coach Mahon. The best all-around player on the team was Jennifer Rogers, while Joanne Towey excelled as a server. "The biggest problem was convincing the girls that they could be better and capable of more," commented Mahon.

The Freshmen Volleyball team ended their season with a record of 5-5. "The girls won the first four games, but started having problems after that," commented Coach Leslie Anderson. The Owls most outstanding game was against Central. The team defeated the undefeated Central. "The girls progressed skill-wise," commented Coach Anderson. The best all-around player and the team's spiker was Tammy Moton. Dina Astonga was the team playmaker and Kathy Gaige was the teams server and rarely made any mistakes. "Twila Dixon Washington, coach, really enjoyed the season, watching the girls progress as much as they did," added Coach Anderson. "This season was Twila's last, as coach, and it will be a great loss," Coach Anderson stated.

Learning The Fundamentals

Frosh Netters Enjoy The Game

By Vanessa Harbert:

For the freshman boys' and girls' tennis teams, inexperience was not going to hurt their confidence. They were ready and willing to learn.

Don McPeak, the girls' coach, said, "We did not win in the terms of wins and losses but we did win in terms of learning how to compete and to improve each week."

The main purpose was to teach fundamentals and to let each player enjoy the game," said the boys' coach, Don Shiliday.

In the eyes of coach McPeak, "the team got along very well and they were quite fun to teach mainly because of their high spirits." To all of the girls, tennis was a fresh, new sport especially with the french foreign exchange student, Clara Jondot. "She could not even speak English so that was a real challenge," said Mr. McPeak.

Don Shiliday remarked that, "all nine of his boys were very good hustlers and quite responsive." He has high hopes for his number one player, Greg Huyck. Greg finished his season with an individual record of four wins two losses.

'Attitude Will Determine How Far You Will Go'

Former State Champ Coaches Girls

"Go out and play to the best of your ability," is a familiar saying of badminton Coach Debbie Pina. Following this advice, the badminton team, consisting of 16 players, had a successful season. The varsity record was 6-6 and the junior varsity record was 9-3.

This year's team was a hard working young squad which has high hopes for the coming years Pina believes. In order to help improve the skills and strategy of the players, Coach Pina is holding a summer badminton recreational class.

Coach Pina became interested in badminton when playing for Agua Fria. Her coach, Carol Hopkins, worked with her to form her famous cross court shot which helped her win the individual title in 1973-74. Now, Pina is applying her talent to coaching. Pina said, "I enjoy coaching because it allows me to coach something that I feel comfortable with and I also get the chance to play myself."

This year Alicia Solis placed third in the single's competition divisionals held at Carl Hayden. As a result, she qualified for state. Coach Pina feels the team's chances of going to state next year are pretty good. "They're hard workers and they usually give me their best during practice and games. It's attitude that will determine how far you go in this aggressive sport."

Young Team, Next Few Years Look Good Owls Drop To Fourth In League

by Sheryl Reese and Alicia Solis

The varsity Softball team, consisting of four seniors, three juniors, eight sophomores, and one freshman ended the season with a record of 6-13, and one tie. At the beginning of the season, the Owls were tied with Tolleson for first place in league, but the tough teams ahead and consistent losses, dropped the Owls to fourth place in the league.

"Our hardest teams this year were Tolleson, the first place team, and Carl Hayden," commented Coach Bob Grey. Returning lettermen were Noe Johnston, Debbie Rickel, Michelle Quittschreiber, Jodi Pierce, and Lissa Wallick. The strength of the Owls was their infield. Some other strong points of the team were Noe Johnston, third baseman, Jodi Pierce, short stop, Stacy Newell, second baseman, and Sophia Marquez, first baseman. "The 1984-85 Owl varsity team was a young team with six sophomores and one freshman. The next few years look very good for the Owls," added Coach Grey. "We had a great defense, batting could have improved, but we stuck together as a team. We'll miss the seniors playing, but we have a lot of underclassmen coming up, which will make for a strong team for the years to come," commented Joanne Towey, sophomore. "We played as a team, for the first time," added Michelle Quittschreiber, third year letterman.

Despite the end-of-the-season-lag, the JV softball team finished with the second best league record, 8-1.

Coach Crystal Stephens, third year coach, has been teaching at Agua Fria for three and a half years, and is extremely liked by her players. "She's a friend, not only a coach, and was always there when we needed her," commented Yolanda Gonzales. Denise Parisi, sophomore, also added, "We were so lucky to have such a fun-loving coach." Stephens extremely enjoys coaching outdoor sports such as softball, so being that her heart is truly in the game, the players efforts are that much stronger.

"At the end of the season the players were tired and the field was rained out continuously but Denise Parisi kept spirits high," commented Coach Stephens. The Owls most exciting game was against Tolleson. The team's spirit was what drove them to another victory. "I'm looking forward to coaching JV softball next year although we'll be losing many players. This season we only had three freshmen and the rest were sophomores," added Coach Stephens.

Toughest Preseason Schedule In Seven Years Season A Disappointment

by Sheryl Reese

A tough preseason schedule, lack of size and inconsistency stopped all chances for the Owls making the divisional playoffs. The Owls preseason schedule was the toughest they had faced in seven years. In the first six games that they played, four of the opposing teams were ranked in the top ten of the state. "After the tough preseason schedule that we went through, I felt that we would be very competitive in our league. But somewhere along the way we had a mental team breakdown," commented senior Abe Harris. The Owls ended their season with a record of 6-22.

The 13-man squad consisted of eight seniors and five juniors, five of them are returning lettermen. Selected from last year's junior varsity team were David Betzhold, Steve Brown, Rodney Green, Jon Mann, Kerry McDaniel, and John Rayner. The five returning lettermen were Abe Harris, John Kemper, Ray Maldonado, Dennis Moses and David Solis.

Coach Wayne Bateman's original goals for the season, like any coach's goals, were to make divisional playoffs, then hopefully, the state playoffs. Unfortunately, due to the lack of size and being the least experienced team in the league, the Owls were unable to reach the playoffs. "We were very inconsistent and had not nearly the season we hoped for," commented Coach Bateman. Even though the Owls had good balance overall, their shooting, aggressiveness, and overall team play still remained inconsistent. "The Owls did manage to do fairly well in the Christmas tournament by placing second," added Coach Bateman.

"It was fun but disappointing. We had hoped to make it to the playoffs, but the lack of consistency prevented us from making it," commented second year letterman Moses. Solis concluded, "The season was disappointing especially since we have made playoffs for the past two years."

Solis was appointed to first team All League and All Division. Honorable mention went to Abe Harris and Jon Mann. Statistical leaders for the team this season were as follows: Top scorers: David Solis 17.6 ppg, Abe Harris 11.8 ppg; Top rebounders: Harris 6.7, Jon Mann 6.0; Field goal percentage: Solis .458, Harris .426; Free throw percentage: John Kemper .810, Solis .782; Assists: Solis, 75, Harris and Kemper 48; Steals and recoveries: Kemper 33, Solis 32.

David Solis, senior, prepares to pass against a C. Grande defender. Solis averaged 17.6 points game.

Enthusiasm, Hardwork And Leadership Working Together As A Team

By Sheryl Reese and Alicia Solis

Develop fundamentals; create team work. Those were Coach DesCombes original goals for the season.

The final season record of 11-8 proved that the junior varsity Owls indeed developed the fundamentals and played well as a team. "This season went very well," commented Coach DesCombes. The Owls hardest competition this season was Phoenix North, Central, South and Alhambra. Although the team's weaknesses were in shooting and rebounding, their strength in aggressive pressing, defense, and fast breaks made up for them. "It was a very interesting season and I feel the JV's improved considerably. Their overall effort was good. The "bunch" had a fine attitude," added Coach DesCombes.

Statistical leaders for the JV season were in scoring: Tony Morales, Tom Cluff, Steve Betzhold, and Jerry Gonzales. Rebounding; Steve Betzhold. Steals and assists; Tony Morales. Free throws; Morales and Gonzales. The team worked as a whole and made the season a successful one, Mr. DesCombes said.

"Enthusiasm, hard work, and leadership is what led the Baby (freshman) Owls to an outstanding season record of 15-1. Injuries played a big roll in the loss against Arcadia. The Owls toughest competition this season was against South Mountain as they defeated them by only one point by the second game. The constant high scoring was a result of the Owls quick defense. Another advantage was that the Owls worked well as a team. "All players contributed to the Owls victories," commented Coach Dave Goitia. Because of the successful season, Coach Goitia sees a very promising future, as long as the players continue to strengthen their skills. "Even though we went 15-1 doesn't mean your future years are going to be easy, you still have to work hard and develop basketball skills;" Coach Goitia added.

Dedicated Wrestlers Face Overwhelming Odds Lack Of Participation

by Sheryl Reese

The wrestling team had its best season in at least four years, but fell short of other goals due to the lack of participation. Some goals in which Coach Mike Williams set for the season were: to get 13 wrestlers in all three levels, place third or better in divisionals and put six wrestlers into the state meet. The only weaknesses the team had was the lack of support by the student body in not filling all 39 spots and attending the meets. Despite the weaknesses the Owls had dedicated wrestlers that were willing to do their best in the face of overwhelming odds. This dedication led to a third place finish in the Buckeye Tournament. The best ever for Agua Fria. "The team wrestled the best I have ever seen at Buckeye by winning all final matches to move into third place," commented Coach Williams. The Owls hardest competition this season was against Alhambra, Maryvale and Camelback. The top wrestlers for this season were Mike Simington, Brett Yohe, Sean Yohe, Gabriel Perez, Raul Castaneda.

However, the team did manage to send four wrestlers to state. Mike Simington, Brett Yohe, Gabriel Perez, and Raul Castaneda went to state but due to the tough wrestling school in Arizona, were only able to score two points in the state meet. "With the number of great athletes at our disposal we could be division champs in one year and state champs in three years. If we could only get 50 of these athletes into wrestling," added Coach Mike Williams.

First Time In Agua Fria's History Soccer Reaches Final Four In State

by Elizabeth Zutell

The AF varsity soccer team lived up to the expectations put upon them by coaches and fans. For the first time in AF's history the soccer team went to state. One of the goals which Coach Mike Mahon set for the team was to go to state. "In order to play well as a team," stated Coach Mahon, "you have to get along on and off the field." The team proved this with their 14-2-1 record and their dedication to the team.

A reliable defense and four strong shooters were the team's strong points, yet they sometimes showed their weak points by losing control. They gained competitive spirit and a winning attitude. The returning lettermen were able to sharpen and display their skills and help the other do the same. The Most Valuable Offensive Player award went to Roy Samaniego and The Most Valuable Defensive Player award went to Jack Ewert. Pete Eichorn received the Most Improved Player award.

Commenting on the season, Coach Mike Mahon added, "my assistant coaches and I thought we had as talented a team as any of the ones we played this year."

The JV soccer team was made up of seven freshmen, three sophomores, and eight juniors. Eight of the eleven upperclassmen had never played soccer at AF before this year. First year juniors Mike Hirth, Robert Morales, Frank Saufley, and H.D. Smith were the team leaders along with Freshmen Neil Taylor and Kevin Ritchey. The Owls ended their season with a record of 5-2-1.

Participation Level Was High

Students Get Involved

The Baby Owls have participated in the North Campus intramurals again. The activities that the students participated in were boys' and girls' double and single racquetball, boys' flag football, girls' volleyball, boys' and girls' basketball, and co-ed softball. "The participation level was well above average," commented Debbie Pina, physical education teacher.

The total participation in racquetball was 173. Boy's singles had a total of 59, girl's singles, 32, boys' doubles, 44, and girls' doubles, 40. The racquetball tournament ran from September until the end of January. All tournaments were double eliminating. First place winner in racquetball were Mike Rodriguez, boys singles; Gina Syverson, girls singles; Sammy Rides and Richard Garcia, boys' doubles; and Cathy Gage and Gina Syverson, girls doubles.

The boys participated in flag football. There were nine teams signed up and they played a round robin tournament. The girls participated in volleyball, with seven teams. They also played a round robin tournament. Total participation for football was 54 members, and there were 42 members playing for volleyball.

The administration's goals for intramurals were to get students involved during their lunch time, to have organized sports, let all students participate regardless of athletic ability, and to bring members of the freshman class together. The intramural program will end the last week of school with an awards assembly that will honor those who participated and those who placed in the tournament.

Spirit, Time And Effort Fans, Volunteers Support Teams

by Sheryl Reese, Patty Boothman and Sharon Mosier

Screaming fans, coaches yelling at players, and the shouts of spirited cheerleaders echo throughout the atmosphere. One can not help being possessed by the hoot of the Owl.

Agua Fria athletes have been supported tremendously for many years by students and community members. However, the main stream of support is directed mainly towards varsity football, basketball and baseball. These sports are given more publicity than the others. "I don't think it's fair that these sports are supported more by the student body. Other athletes put in just as much effort and train just as hard," commented junior, Sharon Mosier. Patty Boothman adds, "Pep assemblies are always directed towards varsity basketball, football and baseball." These are just two of the many opinions shared by students at Agua Fria. If more people were made aware of the other athletic events, then the Agua Fria athletic program would be even more successful than it already is.

Perhaps the reason AF's athletic program is such a success is because it has been so well supported. Community members have put a lot of time and effort into this success. Their contributions have ranged anywhere from coaching to repairs.

For instance, Dr. James K. Martin has been giving boys and girls physicals for over 20 years; Roger Nelson has been a stroke and turn judge and referee for the swim team for a number of years; Ron Ross provides the school with a chain crew at the AF football games; Homer Tylor did the welding on the batting cage for free and has supported baseball immensely; V.O. "Red" Allen started golf many years ago at AF, his son Doug Allen and grandson Craig Allen continue the support of the golf team. Finally, Vic Ayon, under the supervision of athletic director, Cheryl Zidow, has been the varsity sports trainer for the past two years. So as you can see the support towards athletes has been enormous. The time and effort is priceless and will be long remembered.

The community support and contributions to the athletic programs will hopefully continue to grow in the future. This volunteer work will help the athletes to continue their pursuit of excellence.

AF students concentrate on academics for at least six hours a day, but when the bell rings other obligations need to be fulfilled.

Mike Hirth, Sean Brittan, and Mr. Doyen work on computer programs.

Whoa

Hasn't Changed??

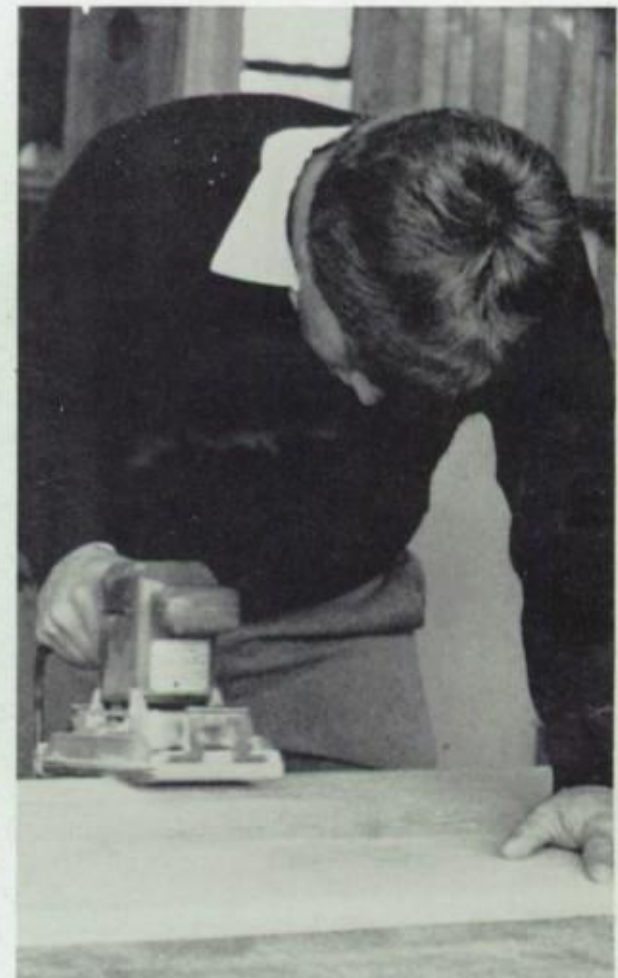

"We have a good choice of classes for our size school, although we aren't considered a small school anymore," said Ken Reed, social studies teacher. Reed hopes for continued growth, because, "Since I've been here, the king of students hasn't changed." Reed will be teaching a new psychology course next year.

Another academic highlight was AF's participation in a follow-up study by the North Central Association (NCA). To AF students, the NCA only exists every seven years when the NCA evaluates AF, but during 1985, AF was involved in one of the first ever follow up reports to the NCA. The NCA is an accrediting group which then evaluates schools according to the standards listed in a booklet, which Principal Duane Given refers to as the "Bible." These follow up reports will also make sure that the suggestions the NCA made after evaluating AF in 1984 were at least considered.

Along with the veterans, 14 new teachers were added. Nancy Carlson, one of the 14, was an addition to the English department. Carlson picked AF because it was her first choice offer.

"The excellence of Agua Fria is probably equivalent to that at any other school in the state, but the kids are very warm and friendly," Carlson said. "Agua Fria has its strengths and weaknesses."

Carlson would like to teach a Humanities course, or an art History course in the future.

Registering students for the new year takes a lot of work by the administration, to make sure every class is what the students want.

'Whoo's Bugging You?'

by Patty Boothman

The one project of high school that will really "bug" you is Biology 3-4's bug collection.

A bug collection is exactly in John Arle's, Biology teacher, own words, "A bunch of bugs. But seriously, it is a classification of various insects." It contains 15 orders and 30 families and rarely can any student finish the project completely. It takes approximately three to four weeks and initially started the first day of school and ended the last week of September.

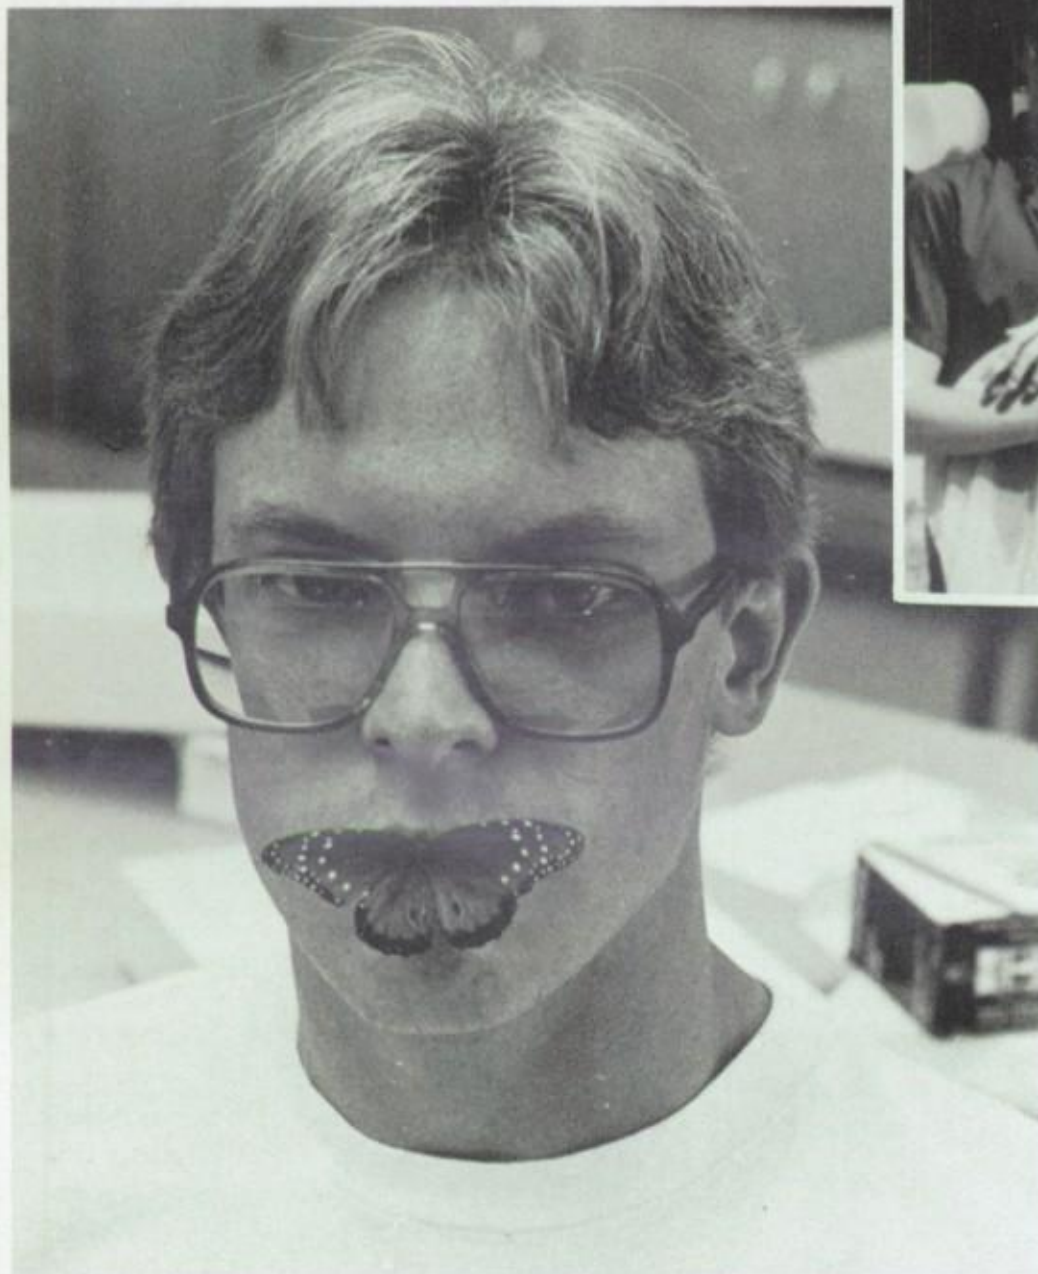

The question asked by most students is, "Why do we have to do a bug collection?!" Mr. Arle's reply is that it is done to allow them a chance to work with the classification system. "Working on this project successfully kills off the first month of school," he added.

Mr. Arle has been involved with this collection for the past three years. He wished this year's class could have gone up north on a class outing to get the chance to widen the variety of insects. "We ran into problems with the school so we had to skip it," explained Mr. Arle. Instead, the students started out looking on campus. After they caught a variety here at school, they went out at different times of the day to widespread locations and looked on their own.

But Mr. Arle remains hopeful about the success of this project in future years. He remarked, "There is a lot to be gained if the students proceed with patience and fort."

Seniors take time out from bug collecting to ham it up for the camera.

Wild Herd Of Macaroni

by Sharon Mosier

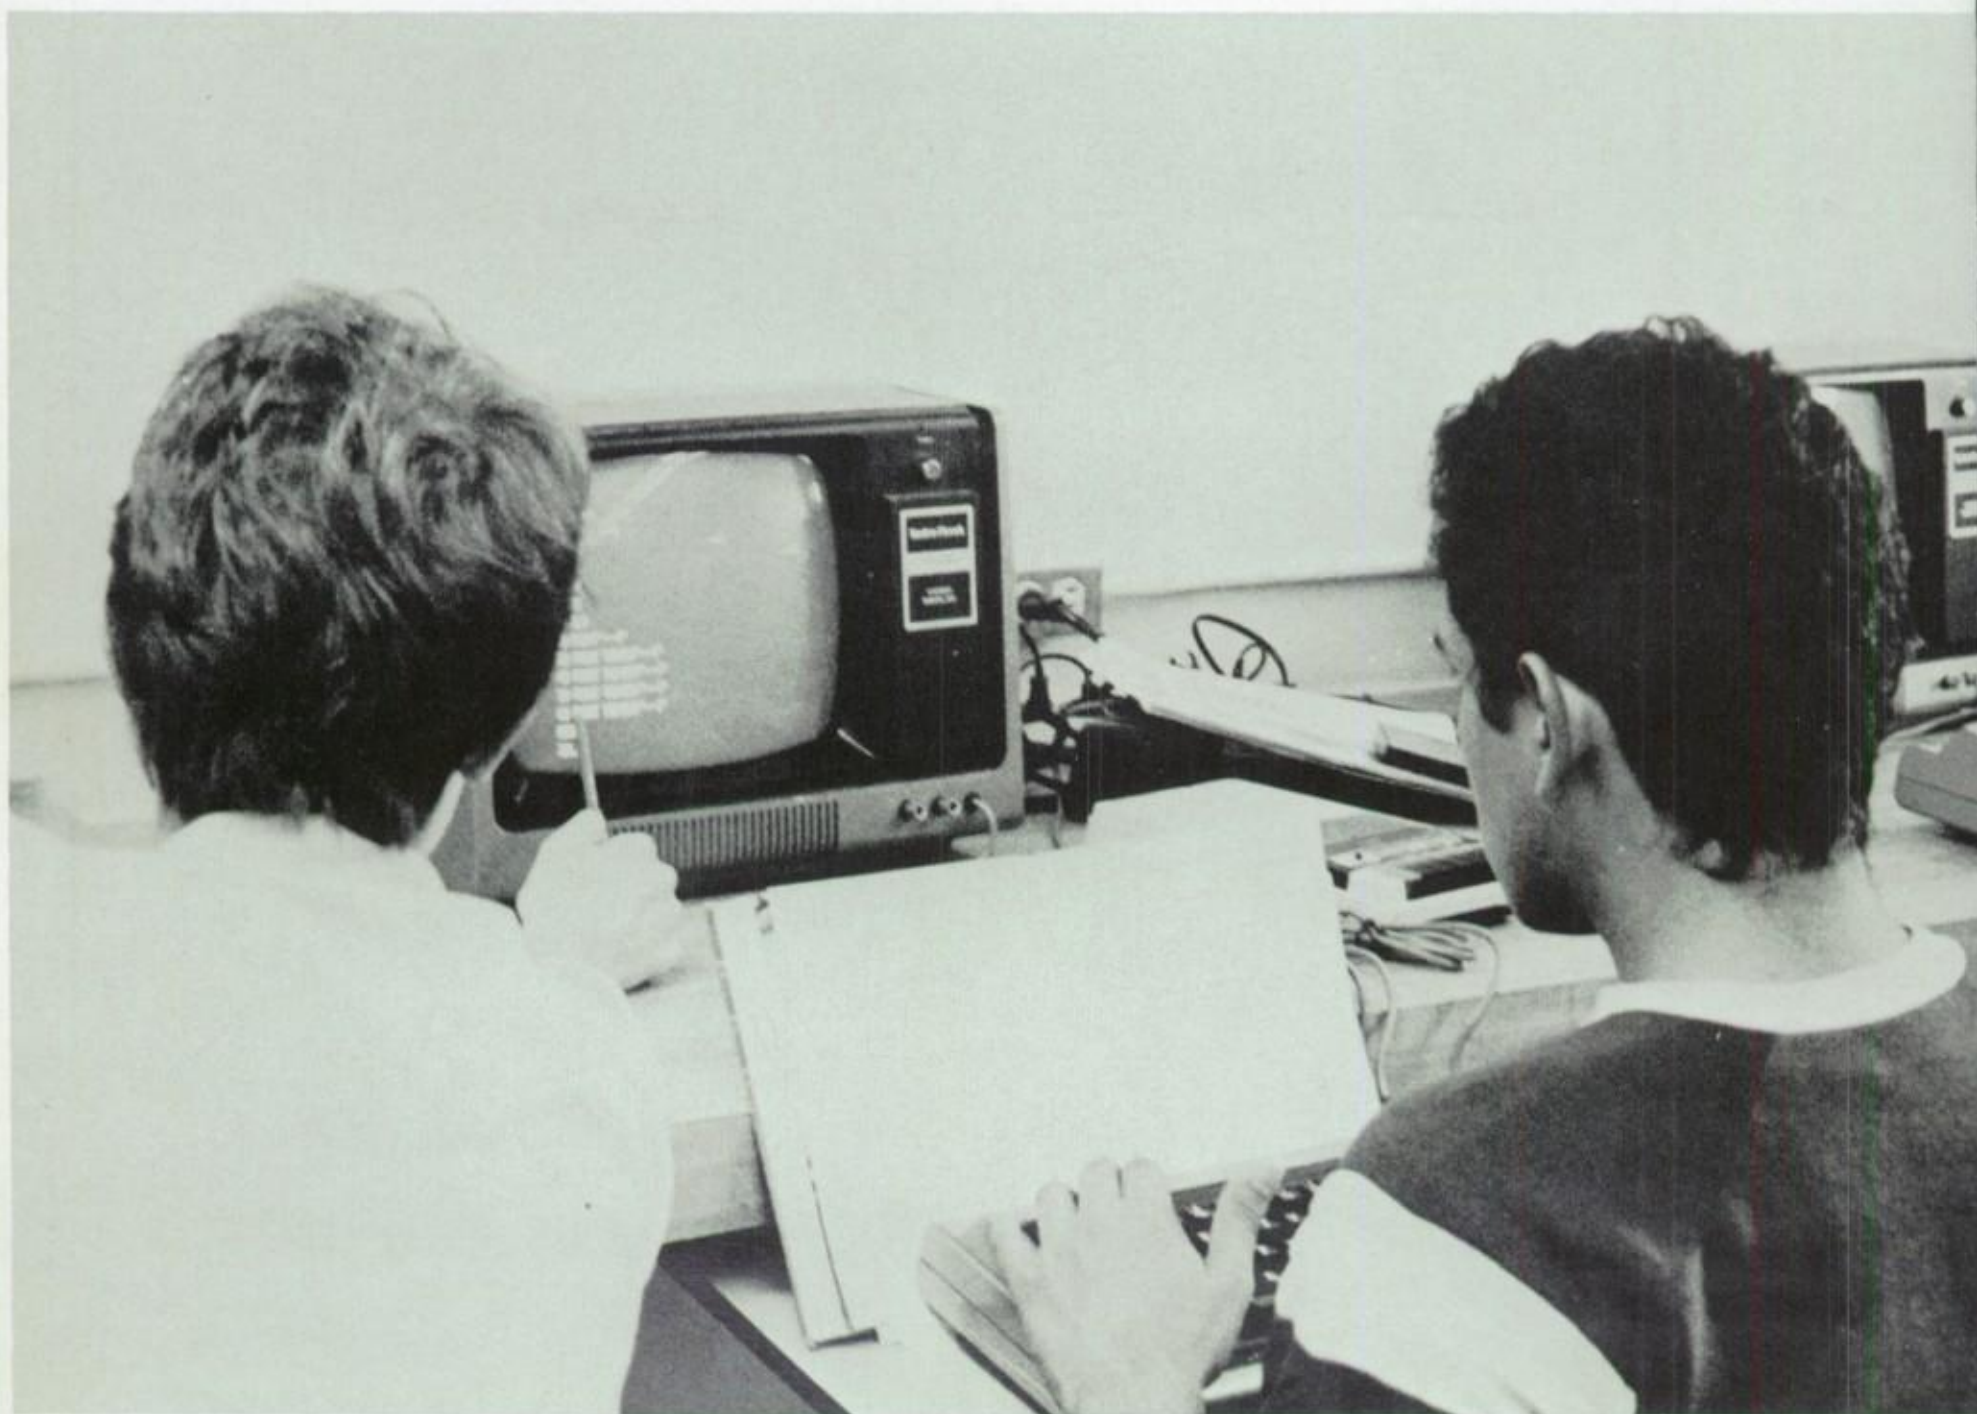

Aquiring a wild herd of macaroni requires time and patience, said John Arle, biology teacher. Every year in early Spring, he prepares for his annual hunt. In the still of the night, Mr. Arle claims he gets in his hot air balloon and spots the creatures with infrared photography. The macaroni is supposedly stationed at the "fun-places in San Diego." He then imports these precious specimens back to Arizona.

To begin the hunt, students search for a variety of macaroni. Of course, Mr. Arle is standing by with a net in case of a stampede. After a specified time, the students return to class and count their catch.

The main purpose for this extravagant hunt is to illustrate how a population can change by natural selection. The different breeds of macaroni are green, red, blue, and albino. The green macaroni is the most intelligent race and very rarely caught by its predators. The albinos are a sad case. They are sold for commercial consumption and tortured abusively by boiling water and suffocated by melting cheese. The macaroni hunt is now completed but the Biology 1-2 class has just begun.

Fermin Hinojosa and Burt Moulton, juniors, proofread their computer programs.

Students Experience Computer Blue

By Patty Boothman

The interest in computers is rapidly rising at AF.

In the Introduction class the students learn 20 commands in BASIC, they discover how computers generate and solve social problems, and are told about the history. In the Programming class, they learn how to write programs using the BASIC commands, and how to program all the computers.

Andre Doyon, computer teacher, believes that the age of computers at AF will expand in the future. He remarked, "They will become a part of our curriculum. We'll see a library media center hopefully. It will be a computer lab with a large number of computers that will be available to the students and the faculty. Also, a library of computer programs."

If a student is going into a science field, Mr. Doyon feels a minimum working knowledge of computers is necessary. Once in college, the computer is a useful tool. A word processor, for example, can be of great help when typing and preparing term papers. Computers can also provide an access to greater sources.

All that is needed to learn how to use a computer is some keyboard skills and a lot of patience with the willingness to learn. Mr. Doyon said, "Approach computers with an open mind, and they can be really exciting and fascinating."

Linda Cole, junior, and Lisa Van Meerveld, senior, take a break from writing their programs.

Laura Lindsey, junior, takes part in Intro To Computers.

Computer Whiz

by Patty Boothman

AF has been fortunate enough to have Andre Doyon on the staff for the past 18 years. Before coming here, he spent one year at Colorado High. Aside from teaching computer classes, he teaches photography and heads the audio visual department.

Mr. Doyon became interested in computers in 1968. In a graduate program at ASU, he took some programming classes that sparked his interest in a new and challenging field. Another of his main interests is photography. His inspiration in this field came from his grandfather.

Included in the string of colleges he has attended are ASU, Oregon State Univ., Utah State Univ., Univ. of CA (Los Angeles), Glendale Community College, Citrus College, Univ. of CA in Fullerton, and United States Air Force Univ.

Outside of school, Mr. Doyon is involved in many activities, two of which are being a policeman, and a real estate agent. He spends his weekends working at ERA Wigwam Realty.

But Ms. Nan Raine, head of personnel, sums it all by saying, "He's everybody's right hand. He is really an amazing human being!"

What's In The Making?

by Sharon Mosier

If one was looking inside of the AF auto mechanic garage one could see flocks of students wandering around inside and outside of an automobile. Greasy and grimey as it may seem, the students actually enjoy themselves. Throughout the year the classes accomplish a tremendous amount, from rebuilding engines and transmissions to doing basic tune-ups and routine maintenance. Mr. Lloyd Purcell and Mr. Joe Cooper instruct these unique concepts. Senior Ruben Bergstein stated, "With cars entering the computer age it gives us the ideal situation to become familiar with computer applications." It is these classes that will guide our students into such areas as designing, mechanical and electrical engineering. G.M. donated a car this year and Johnny Summer donated engines and transmissions for the students to work on and learn from.

In part of these courses, wood industry shines a different light. The class has different values in perspective of centering student's interest and learning something at the same time. It offers a choice of working projects and assignments. Terry Gathercole, junior, said "The class gives an edge in the future by learning the machines." The course is headed by Mr. J. Almasy.

Drafting is a branch of some areas architectural, engineering, and design. In these classes students intensify their natural drafting abilities and learn to cope with specialized instruments. The classroom is an open environment with drafting designs engulfing the empty, subtle space. Draftings appear on the walls that the students have completed by learning how to transfer and comprehend sketches.

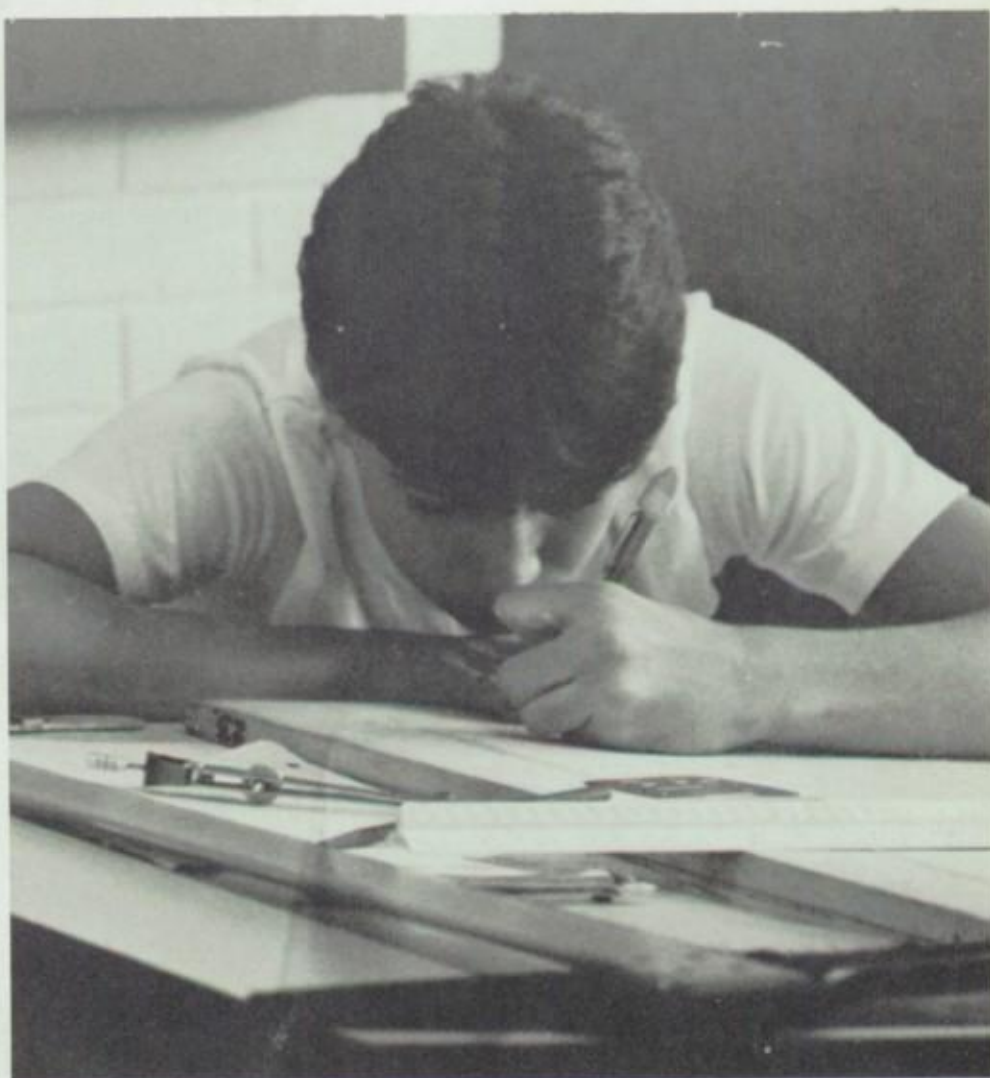

Agua Fria has variety of classes outside the required ones, three of which are Auto Mechanics, Wood Industry, and Mechanical Drawing.

Who's Together?

AF has a variety of organizations, at least enough to catch the interests of most students. Along with the traditional organizations such as Pom, Cheer, and Letterman Club, AF has several types of game Clubs, like chess. Even a Dungeons and Dragons Club was added this year.

Key Club and Interact are community service clubs, which seem to be very popular at AF. In fact, the Key Club has 91 members.

AF offers academically related organizations such as History Club, Science Club, Literary Club. The language clubs could be considered academically related, although students don't have to take the class to be in the French, German, or Spanish clubs. Photo Club, Drama, and the Thespian Club may interest the AF students who might be glamour bound.

AF even has a new Archeology Club, sponsored by Roger Warner, social studies teacher. All of these organizations are just a few at AF that bring the students with common interests together.

Distributive Occupations sponsored a Class of '85 T-shirt sale. The seniors were asked to write their signature on a sheet of paper distributed in the Free Enterprise classes. Then the signatures were printed on the shirts.

Band Of Owls Demonstrates Precision Marching At Agua Fria Football Games

By Venecia Hubbard

"The Band of Owls" is the name given to Agua Fria's own musical organization. It is arranged to function in two ways; in fall as a marching band and in the winter and spring as a concert band. Whether marching or performing a concert, the band members always put forth a 100% effort. As Drum Major Abe Harris commented, "this year's band had more dedication than I've ever seen."

Dedication is a requirement for the band members. Preparing for half-time performances at football games requires daily morning practices and practice every Monday night from 7 to 9 p.m. These endless hours of practice demand precision playing and precise marching ability from each member. When these qualities aren't shown in a member, they must be able to accept constructive criticism and strive on. What they are striving for is perfection. The Band of Owls includes 50 instrumentals, 12 Dance Corp members and 10 Flag Corp members. When every individual puts forth their best effort, the result is truly perfect.

The Band of Owls has displayed its performances at every home football half-time show. The reactions from viewers have been positive. Band Director John Faris says one of the reasons is that "we've added a different twist to each show."

The Band of Owls also displays its talents in several parades such as the traditional Billy Moore Days, the Phoenix Rodeo and the Tucson Rodeo. When the Band of Owls displayed its feathers to the judges at Band Day at ASU, on November 17th, they received an upper division rating.

The list not only involves half-time shows and parades, but also an annual spring and winter concert and tour of local junior high schools. Faris commented on all performances of the band by stating that he was "very pleased with the band, they have shown good spirit and put forth a lot of hard work." When looking at this musical organization, with all the dedication, endless hours of hard work and countless perfect performances, the 1984-85 Band of Owls could be called Agua Fria's pride.

Hoot-n-Dandies Plays To Pep Up Crowd And Basketball Teams At Home Games

By Venecia Hubbard

When attending a basketball game at Agua Fria, the familiar notes of the school fight song can be heard echoing throughout the gymnasium. The group responsible for this is the Pep Band, or the Hoot 'n' Dandies.

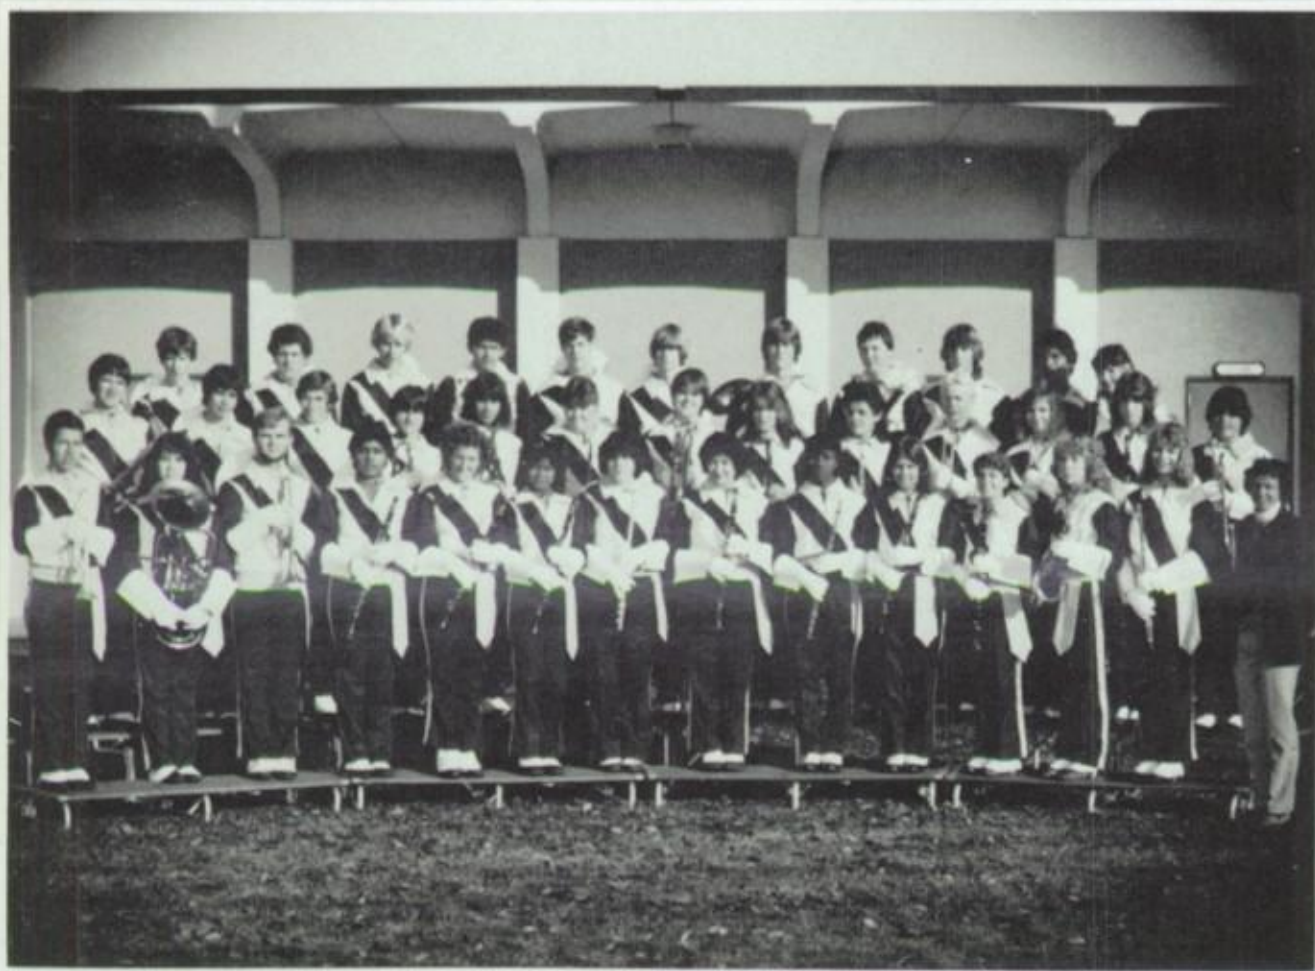

Hoot 'n' Dandies is a volunteer music group which plays for all home basketball games. They provide musical entertainment at the games. They promote school spirit as well, by leading the crowd in various chants. Ms. Leslie Anderson, Pep Band director remarked, "Their spirit and enthusiasm is exciting and contagious!"

Hoot 'n' Dandies practices Monday nights from 7 to 9 p.m. in the band room. Only members of the fall marching band are allowed to join. The members are awarded points for attending all rehearsals and games. These points will go towards a music letter. Pep Band also helps the members in practicing their musical abilities. As Ms. Anderson stated, "They learn their music quickly and they can perform it quite well."

Ms. Anderson also feels that "this years pep band is the best musical group that she has ever had at Agua Fria." She is looking forward to having a great deal of fun with the group. Hoot 'n' Dandies: making games fun for everyone.

Adding a visual effect to the marching band at football games is "very demanding because everything must be memorized and the kids have to be physically fit," stated Leslie Anderson, director of the Flag Corps. "You have to have a good sense of rhythm and good eye-hand coordination."

Being in the Flag Corps takes time and dedication. Practice begins at 7 am in the morning in front of the South Campus library and ends at the end of first hour out on the football field.

The Flag Corps participates in many performances, too. For example, on November 17th, the Flag Corps, with the band, performed at Arizona State University for Band Day. It also marched in many parades, such as the Homecoming and Billy Moore Days Parades.

Flag Corps member Melissa Fryman says, "I like Flag Corps because of the people and I think we work well as a team. I enjoy it a lot."

Melody Arnold, another Flag Corps member, adds, "I like to perform for people and I'm glad I know a technique that not many other people do. After the first few days I felt pretty good about it."

Ms. Anderson concludes, "It's a lot of fun, it's challenging, and I think the kids get a lot out of it."

Choir Shows Dedication And Skill In All Their Various Performances

Rote learning is out. Sight reading is in, in this year's choir. Instead of listening to a new song on the piano and then singing it, the choir gets the leading note and continues by sight reading.

Music instructor, John Faris, took the approach of sight reading to teach the skill of music instead of having the choir learn by rote. Rote means, remembering by ear, not truly learning and retaining the music.

Sight reading takes concentration and mental intensity and is necessary for the success of the choir.

Despite the increased pressure, "This year's Concert Choir has a very optimistic attitude," said Mr. Faris.

The choir performs for many school and community events. They also went to the State Solo Ensemble Festival, which was held on Jan. 26. At this festival those who want to enter, perform before judges, are critiqued and finally given a rating of good, excellent, or superior.

Concert choir requires many long hours of practice. In class choir members concentrate intently on singing their songs.

Las Campanas De Agua Fria performs With Concentration And Confidence

HANDBELLS — it's just a few persons ringing bells to create a song right?
ong!

When the songs are lengthy, they demand much concentration and effort, in order the song to run smoothly," said senior, Julie Pelley.

Actually each person on the handbell team rings up to ten bells to create the team's ue music.

Each bell represents a different note and must be played in rhythmic time.

The students must read the music and count in order to know where to play. When ing, they strike the bell at the waist bringing it up and damping it on the shoulder.
ong with the ordinary bells, the team has a new addition, Choir Chimes. Choir es are tubular, hand held chimes, that work on the same aspect as bells, but give ellow sound.

This year's bell team will have 35 concerts. Over 20 of them will be for the stmas Season.

urel Ritchey adds, "I love handbells, it is a great challenge."

There also is a freshman bell team called the Early Birds, who practice at 7:00 a.m., days a week, in hopes to be promoted to Las Campanas de Agua Fria.

Cheerleaders Show Support To Teams By Charging Up Screaming Crowds

by Dawn Miller

"I want the football team to know that we are behind them 100 percent on and off the field," said varsity cheerleader, Carrie Corbett.

This was the typical response of nearly all the cheerleaders; freshman, junior varsity, and varsity.

Getting the crowds rowdy is their main goal. The cheerleaders were excited about the spirit developed by each class. Kristen Zering said spirit was "a lot better than last year. Everyone is radical at the pep assemblies, but at the games people just stand around and talk."

Although the spirit is improving there is still much work to be done. When no one follows while they are cheering, "we try to do a cheer they can get involved," said Amy Carr.

Cheerleading is not as easy as it sounds. It takes much dedication and practice. All three squads practice many times a week preparing for the games. They have to learn new chants and cheers, new movements, and new stunts.

All of them agree that cheerleading is not just a sport. "It's a service club," responded Rae Anne Carr. Not only are they in charge of pepping up the crowds, they do such things as serving in banquets, baking treats for the teams, and doing fund raisers.

Not quite ready for practice, Debbie Temple engaged in a more fun activity, hoola-hooping.

Dancers Perform At Games, Busy Throughout The Year

by Kym Hayes

The Dance Corps is at the basketball games. The dancers march with the Band of Owls at the various band functions; in fact, they stay busy for almost the entire year.

During the football season every morning the entire pom team meets at school at 7 a.m. so that they can learn and perfect their various routines. Being at school so early is a necessity because during their first hour class they must spend their time on the football field, marching with the band, perfecting their movements. For the Dance Corps, they must spend long hours of practice to perfect a show for half time or pre game.

Then, during basketball season they can dance during their first hour class, but that usually is not enough time, so again they arrive at school at 7 a.m. to perfect their dances.

Also, each member of the team bakes treats for the basketball and football players. Captain, Alicia Solis says that baking treats "is just a way to help the team get some spirit before the game and its just a way to show the teams that we are always behind them."

Being on the Dance Corps isn't as easy as it looks. It takes a lot of time, patience, and dedication in order to do the best shows that they can. But the whole team remarked, "It's worth it."

Senior, Kim Cashman, dances to the band during the Homecoming Game.

Junior, Kelly Chandler and Pom, Captain Alicia Solis are best friends.

Art And Photo Develop Creativity

Venecia Hubbard

The Art Club and Photo Staff are two major examples of organizations that are joined because of personal interest!

The photo staff is a seven member team who is led and advised by Andre Doyon. According to Mr. Doyon, to become a member of the photo staff one must be "extremely hard working, a good photographer and have a lot of free time." Mr. Doyon also commented that the members must be "very reliable in frustrating situations." Frustrating situations are an every day occurrence to photo staff members. As senior Michelle Quittschreiber stated, "I enjoy taking pictures but at times, all the work can be so confusing and hard." The staff faces a daily pile of photo requests from many different individuals. They must start at the top and work down at a very rapid pace as Mr. Doyon commented "you must evaluate the orders, decide which ones are top priority and move at a quick, organized pace," he also added that "this year's staff has been extremely hard working." Being on the photo staff requires much hard work and dedication, and a personal love of photography.

The Art Club, as sponsor David Clark explained, "is an organization of students who are interested in participating in art-related projects outside of the daily art classes." The Art Club members are involved in several projects such as the traditional, annual all-school art show and parents night reception. The members also have the chance to display their work in various shows such as Youth Art Month and the scholastic art awards. The members have obligations, as Mr. Clark commented, "the Art club members are responsible for fulfilling the numerous requests for posters, signs, T-shirt designs, and other types of commercial art work that come in from the school and community." In order to fulfill all of these various requests, the members meet to discuss and plan the projects. Senior Henning Rogge stated, "I really like meeting with the members of Art club because they are fun people and I like being with them." The Art club, which is designed to fulfill the artistic interests of its members has succeeded in doing this, because this year's Art club has been very active and productive with their projects. It could be said that the only requirement for membership into the Art club is desire.

SC-Many Hidden Responsibilities

by Kym Hayes

A reading of minutes, the treasurer's report, passing petitions, and discussions over school related situations are all part of the student council meetings. This organization is designed to help students govern themselves in matters relating from fund raisers to homecoming.

Student Council is best described by South Campus Principal, Duane Given, as "the government of the school run by the students." The Student Council is composed of a president, vice-president, treasurer, secretary, and four representatives from each class. There are also student body officers which consists of a president, vice-president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary and a treasurer. Also, represented in the Council are the presidents of the variety of clubs from South Campus.

Many of the students feel that Student Council is an organization to get involved in because, "they get to miss classes," but that is definitely not true. Being a member in Student Council is a very frustrating as well as a very rewarding experience. One must be a very hard worker in order to succeed as a good officer.

The Student Council is responsible for a variety of events. They are in charge of Homecoming, all student elections, dances such as the get acquainted dance and the Christmas Formal, royalty during homecoming, Spring Week, Teacher Appreciation Week, the Agua Fria scrap book, and much, much more.

Homecoming is just one of the many tasks of which Student Council is in charge. Although Homecoming lasts only a week, it took Student Council approximately three weeks of preparation. Planning Homecoming is just like planning any other event to Student Council, "They don't worry about the time they spend planning, all they worry about is their finished product," Mr. Given said.

The Agua Fria scrap book, one of the council's hidden responsibilities, is located in the office. Secretary, Susie Saufley, with the help of the Council, has kept this book up to date from year to year. The scrap book is a book that consists of all newspaper articles that contain information dealing with Agua Fria and its students.

Student Council also controls the organizations' money supply. They do this by passing and rejecting petitions, signing purchase orders, and co-signing money out of accounts. By being in control of these items, Student Council can limit organizations money supplies, and measure one club is not making too much money.

"Student Council is a very hard work organization," Mr. Given said. Each member has a deep responsibility, and each member is a leader. Student Council is best described by Given as "hard workers, who do a whole lot for the student body, but seldomly get credit."

National Honor Society Recognizes Students' Academic Achievements

Kym Hayes

The National Honor Society is an organization for selected members only. There are many requirements that each student must fulfill in order to be selected in this special group. The grade point requirement is 4.75 for sophomores, and juniors. For seniors the requirement is 5.0. Activity points are also a part of the requirements and are earned through membership and service. Also all grades must be maintained. For example, no member can receive an F, and a D in a class will result in probation. A second D will result in suspension from the society. During the course of the year the organization holds a See's Sucker sale in order to raise money for a scholarship which is given out to a member of the graduating class.

When the members are selected an induction ceremony is held in the auditorium. After the ceremony the students have snacks and are invited to a breakfast by one of the teachers the following day.

Members see membership of the National Honor Society as a very special privilege. It is best summed up by Senior Kimberly Thompson, "The National Honor Society is an incentive for every high school student," she said.

Key Club Provides Services To Various Community Organizations

by Venecia Hubbard

Key Club is a service organization with the Kiwanis Club. As sponsor Mike Mahon explained, "Key club is designed to serve the school and community."

Senior Sean Early commented, "I think Key club is a very good club, especially in the area of community involvement." Some of the traditional services that Key club provides are the building of a mascot for homecoming, wrapping Christmas gifts for Far West children, and buying Christmas trees for the Christmas formal, and then donating them to needy families. Key club has several future projects planned such as food drives and repainting the school cafeteria.

Key club also has plenty of fun, with activities such as socials at members' houses, movies, volleyball tournaments with other clubs and the annual Key club convention. Key club raises money for all these activities by selling candy, balloons, sponsoring dances and working at the Phoenix International Raceway.

Mr. Mahon explained, "we like people to join who have pride in their school and in themselves." It is easy to see this quality in all Key club members, because of their dedication. At meetings everyone discusses letters and literature that contain various requests for the club's service. If the request can be filled, the members start to work right away on planning the project.

Mr. Mahon gave a brief description of Key club's goal. "We need to impress on the students that having fun is great, but there are times when work has to be done, and that we can do more in larger numbers. Teamwork is the key!"

Interact Inspires Insight In Individuals

prestige is what you want from a club, in the Interact Club is for you.

Interact is a service club affiliated with Rotary. As sponsor Karen Hepting explained, "We have an international, nation-community, and school service to perform each year."

Some of the traditional services which Interact performs are the support of a Korean child, and every Tuesday, two Interact members attend Estrella Rotary meetings with superintendent Harold Porter. At these meetings the members learn the meaning of service and how to become more involved with their community.

Interact is a service club, but as senior Debbie Rickel stated, "I think Interact is a great club because, it is very prestigious, it is also a lot of fun." Fun is a word that goes along with this club. For example, the members have planned such things as ice cream socials, midnight movie expeditions, skating trips and a camping trip just to name a few.

Interact has been involved with dances, car washes, bake sales, and one of the major fund raisers was the selling of class spirit buttons. Interact sets aside a certain amount of money for a traditional Interact Scholarship fund. This scholarship is given to a member who is a senior and who has been very active in the club.

Once in the club, students must maintain a "C" average. Membership in the Interact club is very worthwhile. The combination of service, along with fun is the reason Interact is such a success. Mrs. Hepting summed it up when saying, "Interact is the best club on campus."

Guest Speakers, Bible Studies, Games And Discussion Highlight FCA Meetings

By Venecia Hubbard

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a fairly new organization at Agua Fria. Having been formed for only two years, many students are unaware of what this club is all about. Dave Hill, sponsor, state "FCA is a group of christians who meet to discuss and enjoy fellowship with one another."

There are approximately 20 members, who meet every Monday at 7:30 p.m. Although it is called Fellowship of Christian Athletes, one does not necessarily have to be an athlete or a Christian to join. "Everyone is welcome, if they are interested in fellowship with others," stated Miss Crystal Stephens, sponsor. The meetings include guest speakers, Bible studies, games, and discussion of revelant issues and problems.

Junior April Stevens stated, "FCA is fun, I go to the meetings because I enjoy being with other people and making good friendships."

Letter Club Provides Recognition And Status To Varsity Athletes

Venecia Hubbard
 "Letter Club is an honorary organization, which recognizes the accomplishments of athletes," stated sponsor Gayne Descombs.

Any person who has received a varsity athletic letter may join. Letter Club does not hold regular meetings, or have frequent fundraisers. The club is in charge of one major project, which is the annual Hall of Fame induction.

Members of the club sell popcorn at the basketball games each week, to raise funds for this project. The members then purchase the various plaques, and help in the presentations of the inductions.

Junior Eric Perkins said, "I think the club is great; it gives the athletes recognition that they deserve for all their hard work." Senior Stephanie Vaughn expressed her view of the club as, "A status symbol for receiving a letter." Letter Club truly gives all its members a sense of pride, and it is a club full of different people and their various types of perfection.

French, German, And Spanish Clubs Enjoy Different Tastes Of Culture

It may be obvious that the Spanish, French, and German clubs all exist to add fun to learning about foreign languages and cultures. They accomplish this by sampling native food, going to parties, and travelling.

The French club, sponsored by French teacher Elaine Billingsly, has enjoyed getting acquainted with the new French family now living in our community, the Jondots. The Jondots sang and taught the members some French songs. "It was very enjoyable," stated Mrs. Billingsly. The club also enjoyed a taste of culture when they went to the French Corner for dinner. Each student had the opportunity to talk with the Jondots about living in France.

Elsa Solorzano, Spanish club sponsor, said, "I'm excited about all our activities this year." The club has sold candy and carnations and has sponsored a dance. They held the annual blood drive on Dec. 14 to help their community. These activities are to help raise money for the seniors in the classes and/or the clubs to take a trip to Acapulco. If the Acapulco trip is too much for their budget, the members will go to Mazatlan, separate from the senior trip. With any extra money, the younger members will go to Big Surf or to a restaurant. Sophia Marquez, a senior Spanish club member, said, "I like the club because I meet new people and learn about the culture."

The German club, sponsored by Laurie Davis, sold their traditional gummi bears and held a Christmas party with a variety of different German foods.

The foreign language instructors were excited to have Foreign Language Week this past spring. Mrs. Davis said, "I found it very beneficial." During Foreign Language Week, the cafeteria offered different types of foreign food, while dances and skits were being performed. The foreign language teachers are hoping to make Foreign Language Week an annual occurrence at Agua Fria.

Actors Gain Experience

by Diane Andeson

Nearly all Drama Club members contributed to the success of "A Christmas Carol" produced on Dec. 7 and 8 in the AF auditorium.

"I was impressed by the new actors and hope they will continue to grow, making the department stronger," Director and Drama Club Sponsor Byron Judge stated.

"I thought it was fun because it gave me a chance to get closer to my friends and to meet new people. I felt that everyone cooperated well which developed a good play," said junior Eric Ahart, who portrayed Scrooge as a young boy.

Besides being in the Drama Club, some members are also involved in Thespians. Thespians is an internationally recognized drama club in which students who have acquired a certain number of hours of work in various areas of theatre are initiated and enrolled as members. They are also drama club members and cooperate in doing activities together.

Many club members are also enrolled in a drama class. They learn how to give an improvisation, set design, analyze characters, and deliver different emotions. Seniors are also given the opportunity to direct a one act play and to learn about drama history and other areas of theater.

Advanced Seminar Studies Culture

by Dawn Miller

In Agua Fria's version of the gifted program, those selected to join attend the ASU Planetarium, the Nutcracker Ballet at Christmas time, the Phoenix Symphony, and the ASU Lyric Opera.

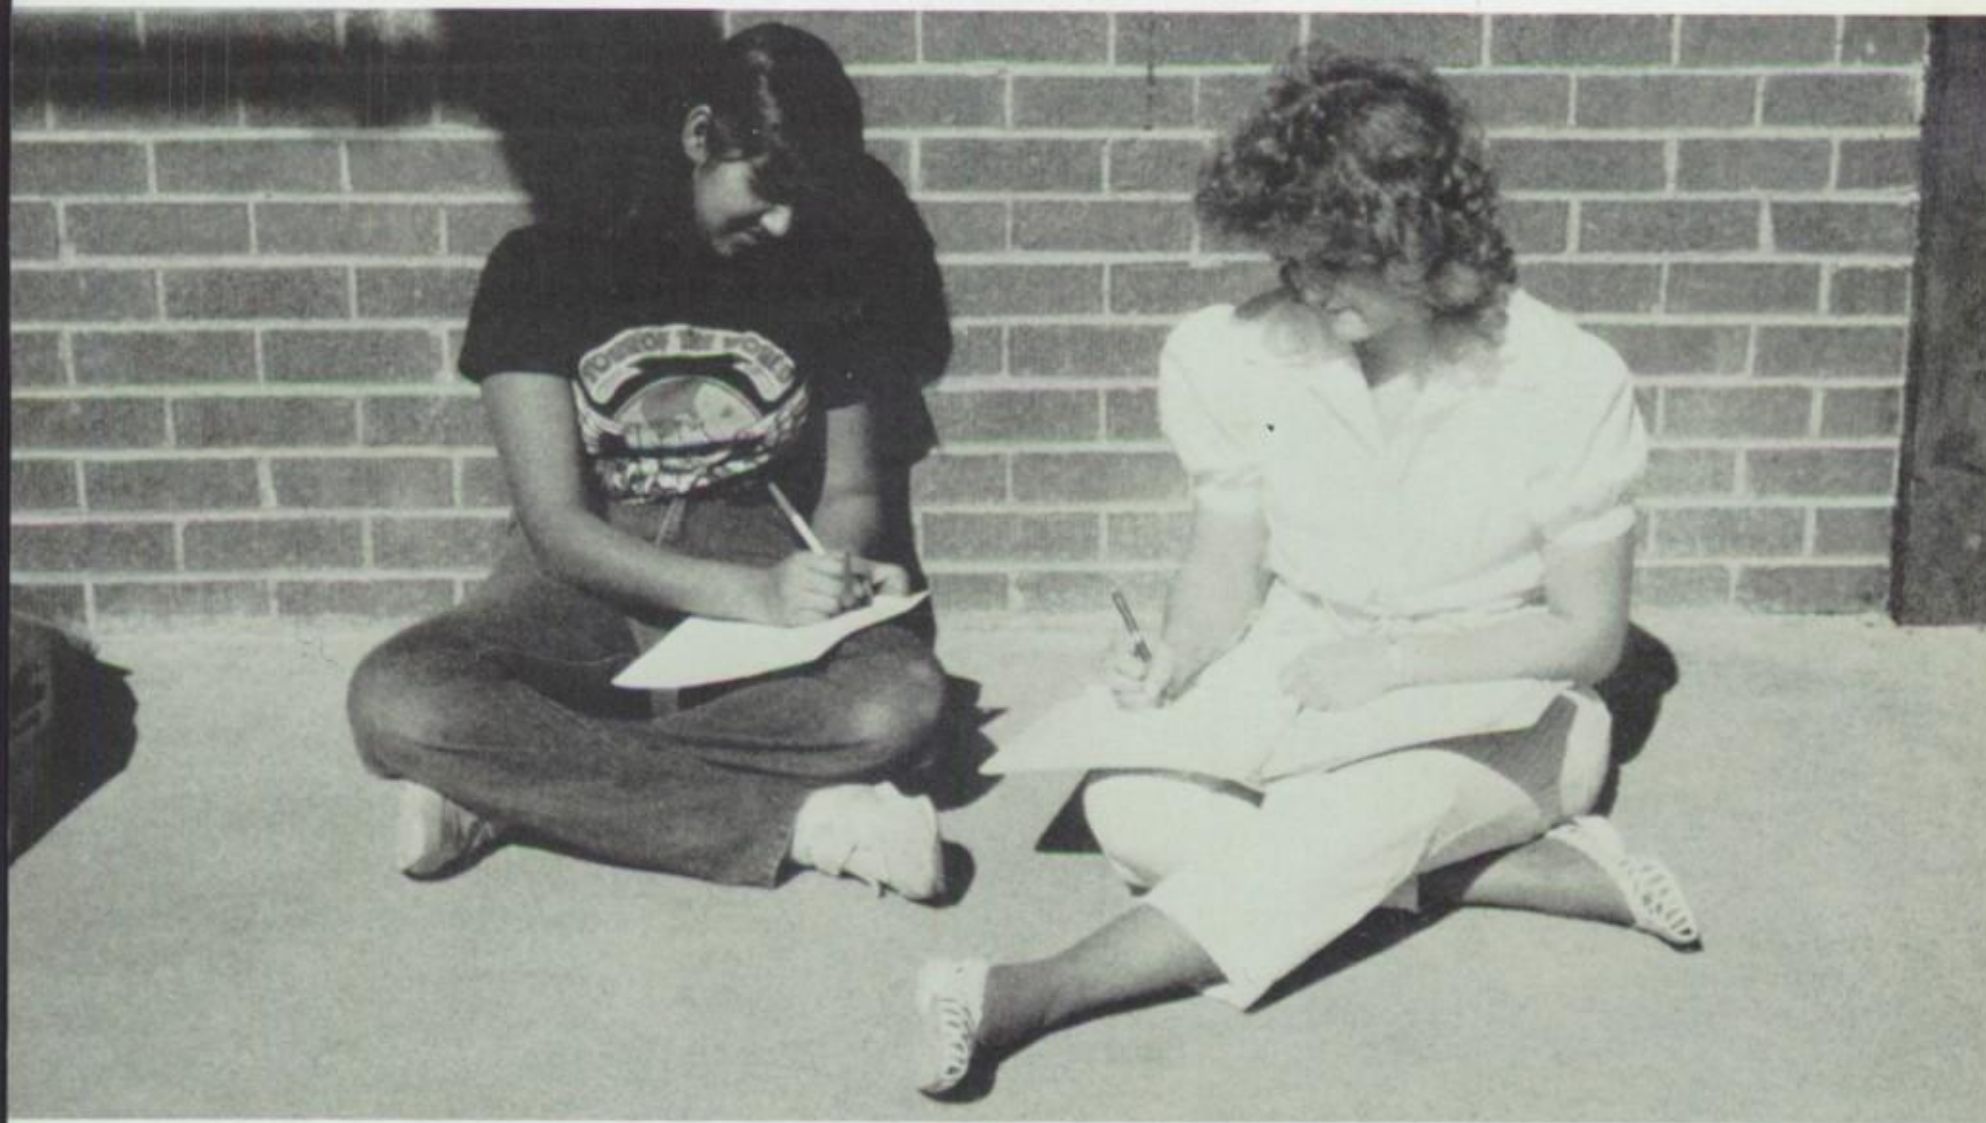

"Through Advanced Seminar we get to attend more cultural events," said junior, Gina Doubleday. They attend at least one activity a month.

During the year there are several meetings to discuss the upcoming activities. They have a year long project that they work on which requires much creativity and imagination. "We learn self-discipline by working on our projects all year," said senior, Janett Uteri. The projects are judged on at a banquet in the spring.

All the members are chosen through their accomplishments in school. Most of those who are chosen were in the gifted program in junior high. Also, students may enroll by getting a teacher's recommendation and by passing a special psychological test.

Future Business Leaders Of America Club Gives Many Benefits To Members

by Steph Vaughn

The Future Business Leaders of America club at Agua Fria, which has existed since 1972, distributed ten bags of groceries and two turkeys to needy families for Thanksgiving. Mayfair Market and A.J. Bayless each donated one turkey for FBLA to give away, and the Wigwam volunteered to cook them. During Christmas, the club received a donation of approximately one hundred and twenty-five dollars from the Church at Litchfield Park to buy gifts for families. FBLA also wrapped the presents at a gift-wrapping party.

The meetings for the twenty-five FBLA members are the first Tuesday of every month at 6:00 p.m. During the meetings, the club discusses fund-raisers and social projects.

Money from fund-raisers, such as selling candy, is used to send members to regional, state, and possibly national competition in the areas of shorthand, accounting, and business law. Extra money goes towards scholarships for graduating seniors.

Farrel Cutler, FBLA's head sponsor, emphasizes, "There are many benefits of being in FBLA. Members improve their business skills, do community work, socialize with others, compete against other schools, and have opportunity for special recognition."

"The FBLA club gives its members a good business background and the competition is fun. It's also neat to give people food at Thanksgiving and gifts at Christmas," adds FBLA president Lisa Williams.

Members Of Diversified Occupations Learn Skills To Aid Their Careers

by Steph Vaughn

Students learn skills to use on the job, how to fill out applications and resumes, and how to deal with their fellow workers during the class period that the Diversified Occupations club is held at Agua Fria High School. The twenty-six D.O. members actually leave school sixth and seventh hours to go to work. All together, the students receive three credits towards their graduation for being in class one hour and working two hours daily. Besides working, members of Diversified Occupations have fund-raisers, such as selling candles and jerseys, and sponsoring dances, to raise money that goes towards a banquet for their employers at the end of the year. Some employers are Luke Federal Credit Union, Phoenix Trap and Skeet, doctors' offices, department stores at Westridge Mall, the Far West Developmental School, and the newly opening Peter Piper's Pizza parlor.

Requirements to be in the D.O. organization are the students must be seniors, and they must have taken classes in their pursued area of work. For example, if a student wanted to be a secretary, he must have taken clerical classes, such as typing and shorthand. There are no dues, and the time to apply to become a member of D.O. is in March of your junior year when sponsor Jeannette Lewis talks to your class about it.

Mrs. Lewis adds, "D.O. is for someone who is looking to develop a career, not just have a job. It allows students to expand on their skills learned at school and teaches them how to avoid problems at work."

"Diversified Occupation (D.O.) is important to me because it helps me understand some of the things that go on out in the world of jobs. I have learned alot of things that are expected out of me, and what I should expect out of others. It's made it easier on me at my present job, especially about how important my appearance, attitude, and performance are. D.O. is a great class. I wish every senior could be offered the opportunity of taking D.O. It would make others realize how important choosing a career is and how succeeding at it gives a person a sense of satisfaction," concludes D.O. member Dana Rodenberg.

Staff Strives For Quality

By Kym Hayes

The "Desert Howl" staff was extremely young with only three returning staff members. In the beginning of the school year, Adviser Joe Pfeiff, had to teach the basic fundamentals of journalistic writing and interviewing techniques in a very short period of time, so that a good newspaper could be printed less than seven weeks later.

In the future, he would like to have a journalism 1-2 class where he could teach the beginning staff members good, professional journalism techniques.

In order to produce an interesting paper this years staff tried to increase reader interest. They made a wider variety of eye catching layouts and headlines. They tried to write exciting stories that would interest the reader, and print clearer pictures.

"I think this year's staff has worked very hard to produce the best paper this school has ever had and to maintain the award winning reputation of last year's paper, though the staff was inexperienced at beginning of the year, everyone worked hard, and quickly learned how to produce a professional paper," remarked Editor in chief, Kelly Maslyn.

Mr. Pfeiff would like to have the Desert Howl nationally recognized as a top high school paper, increase readers interest and have the paper as a premiere activity at Agua Fria. Although this goal will take time, Pfeiff feels that someday soon the goals will be achieved.

Managing Editor Tait Sorenson, Editor Kelly Maslyn, reporter Jamie Maslyn and Feature Editor Lori Ritchey plan a Desert Howl layout.

Wickiup Staff Works Diligently To Produce The 1984-1985 Yearbook

by Kym Hayes

Although many people feel that producing a yearbook is an easy task, this year's Wickiup can easily prove them wrong. Before a yearbook can even be started many tasks must be accomplished first.

First the staff had to decide on a theme. Even that was a difficult task. In September, everyone in the class submitted one theme proposal. The Editor-in-Chief, senior, Kris Barnes, went over all the proposals and chose the theme "Who goes there?"

Then in October the entire staff sold ads to various businesses in the community. For ad sales to increase the staff had a contest for first and second place. Kym Hayes won first followed by Sheryl Reese. Then finally the various job descriptions were assigned. This yearbook consists of one Editor-in-Chief, and a managing editor.

Then the yearbook is divided into six sections, and each section has an editor. Under each section are the various workers, known as the general staff.

Finally the yearbook could begin. Photos were ordered and group pictures were taken. Soon, pictures were being poured into the room by the photo staff and the book gradually started to come together. Deadline by deadline, pages were being sent to the printers and the book was almost finished.

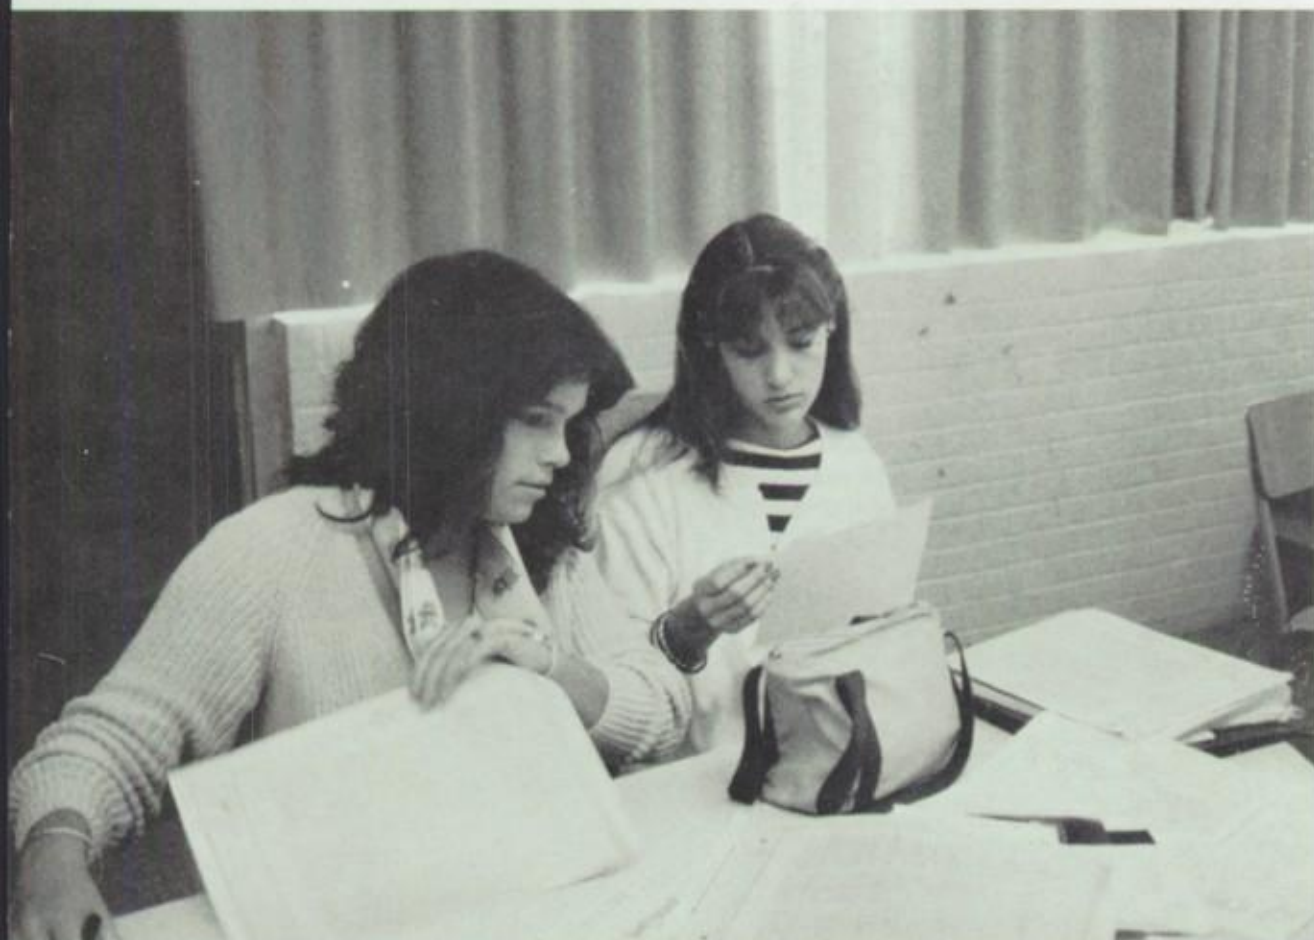

Then the brownline pages came back for the staff to inspect. So far so good, the book will be ready by May.

"Advisor, Joe Pfeiff worked hard with the entire staff. Although the majority of the staff were beginners he worked patiently to teach us how to be professional and produce an excellent yearbook," said staffer Dawn Miller, senior.

Literary, Speech Clubs Intriguing

Literary Critiques, Speech Performs

by Steph Vaughn

For a student to join Literary Club he must "enjoy creative writing and be able to discern good writing from bad," commented sponsor Karen Hepting. The six members try to meet every Monday when a contest is being held to critique students' literary works and to compile a literary magazine from these. No dues are required to be a member of this second-year club. Fund-raisers such as bake sales and car washes are held to make money.

"Students should join the Literary Club to enjoy and appreciate their peers' writings. We feel we did an excellent job last year. This year we hope to build on that and be even better," adds Mrs. Hepting.

"I joined the Literary Club because I like to read poems and short stories. I also like to write poetry and hear people critique my writing. If other people like to write stories or poetry, I think they should join the Literary Club," concluded Jack Malysa.

Speech Club, which has existed a little longer than Literary Club, consists of eighteen members who participate in speech tournaments. The only requirement to be in the club is to "have a sincere interest in participating in speech tournaments held at various high schools throughout the valley," stated sponsor Sylvia Hughes. Meetings are called before tournaments, or when special business comes up. The Speech Club's "ghost-buster grams" fundraiser was staged to raise money for entry fees in tournaments and to help pay for judges.

The club also "allows students to prepare selections in the areas of oral interpretation (which includes serious prose, drama, humor, and poetry), duo acting, and extemporaneous speaking. They travel to other schools to compete against other students," explains Mrs. Hughes. "Students should join for the experience of speaking in front of an audience. It builds self-confidence and pride."

Rick Wichman, a three-year Speech Club member, says, "Speech Club is challenging and it lets you meet people with your same interests."

Kris Andrews, another member, adds, "Speech Club lets people compete. The sponsor is neat. I just enjoy it."

Juniors Michael Whitehead and Regan Pylman, sophomore Angelique Zerinque, senior Kristin Alkire, and sponsor, English teacher Karen Hepting, critique a story at a meeting.

Ski Club Travels To Sunrise For A Weekend Of Skiing In The Mountains

by Steph Vaughn

The Ski Club originated from the students' need for winter recreation. Last year, a trip was planned, but there was no snow so it was cancelled. However, the Ski Club planned another trip to Sunrise for January 18th and 19th. The charter company of Ski America provided transportation to and from the mountains for the forty club members planning on going.

The Ski Club asks for dues of $10, with the trip costing about $85 per person. Fund-raisers were planned to raise more money for the skiing students. However, ski rentals and other extra costs must be paid for by the individual student.

Sponsor Cheryl Zidow said, "It was fun, but there were a lot of groups there. It was pretty warm and no one got hurt. It really was a lot of fun."

Tina Nichols, senior, replied, "I wish we would have had more time, but it was still fun."

Chris Cole, senior, responded, "It was a great experience even though it was a little crowded."

Mike Mahon, Driver Education teacher, concluded, "The trip was fantastic. It was a great time for teachers and students to interact away from school."

R.O.T.C. Not Just A Parade

Work And Discipline Required

by Dawn Miller

Marching at parades, presenting the flag, and ushering at school events are the obvious responsibilities of ROTC members. Besides those duties there are many that go unacknowledged such as cleaning the fields after games, being ropeguards at football games, and doing various odd jobs at the Miss Billy Moore Pageant.

"It takes much discipline and practice to be in ROTC," said senior, Susan Thompson. There are practices every day after school to prepare for parades and other competition. On certain occasions morning practices are also necessary. The main duties in ROTC class are to learn and take commands. Each person must learn eight minutes of maneuvers and memorize a certain amount of steps between each of them.

"The Drill Team consists of mostly freshmen and they are learning really well," said Drill Team Commander, Cheri Johnson. They have participated in the Billy Moore Days, Surprise, and Veteran's parade. In two of the parades they were awarded first place; the other did not give out awards.

That was just the beginning of the parades, there are many more coming up. Although much work is involved there is still time for fun. Many activities are being planned such as the Christmas military ball, several parties, and the Sweetheart ball.

Dungeons And Dragons: Only A Game With An Undeserved Reputation

by Dawn Miller

When some people talk about Dungeons and Dragons they associate it with evil-doings and people who are in cults. This is not what "D and D" is about. "It is only a game and the people who play it are not devil-worshippers. I don't think people can label something that they know nothing about," said sophomore, Lonnie Jordan.

The club got started by Angelique Zeringue, sophomore. She felt that it would be a good way to get people who play the game together in a certain meeting place. She got a petition signed and talked to Mr. Fulton about getting it started. Miss Wilkins willingly assumed responsibility as club sponsor. "It was hard to get the club started because of the bad things people say about it, but now it is doing really well," said Wilkins.

The game has set characters that exist in medieval times. The object is to achieve anything you want within the boundaries of that world. Each character has to gradually build up to power. "Dungeons and Dragons helps you to have a better appreciation of history, broadens your imagination, and quickens your thinking," said Zeringue.

There is one meeting each week lasting from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Presently they have eleven members and the club is still growing. They are planning to have fund raisers and to go to the "Lepracon," a statewide game convention.

Science Club Float Wins First

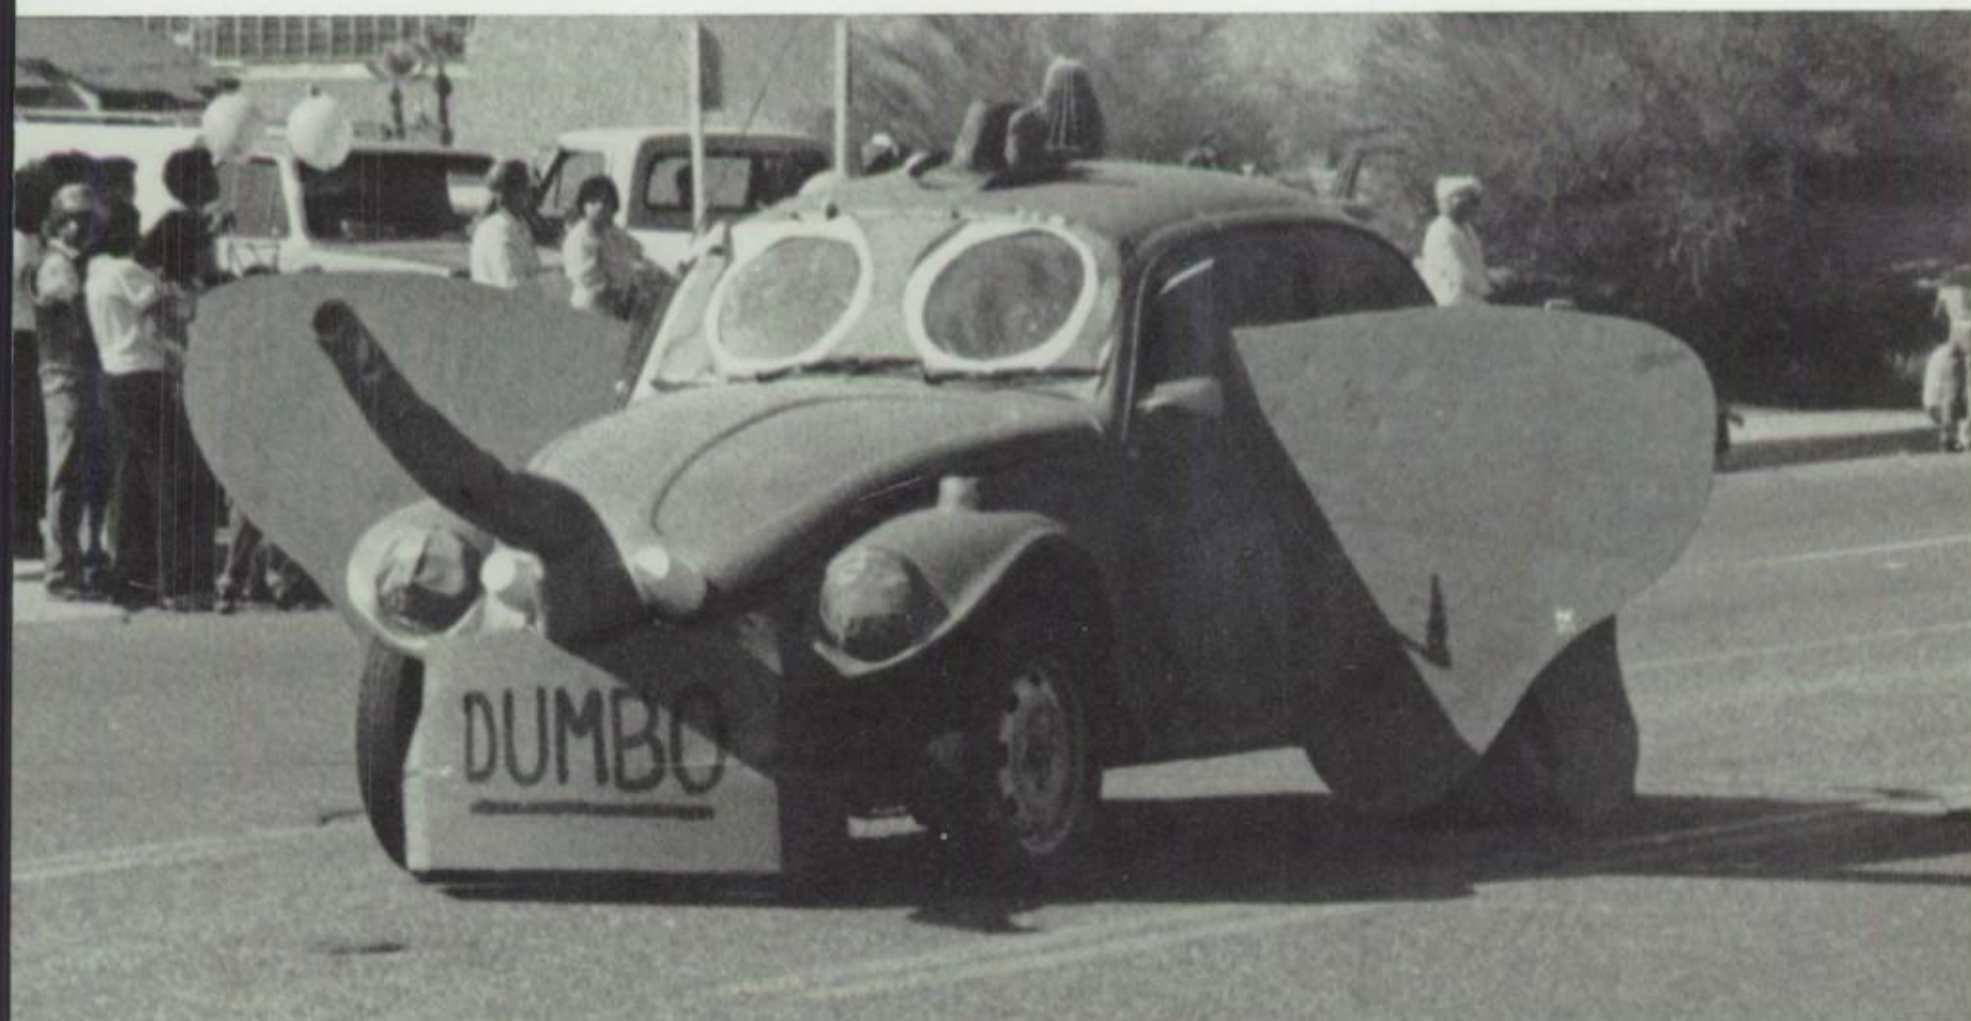

Dawn Miller
Science Club was formed because science teacher, John Arle, felt there was a need to extend scientific study at Agua Fria. However, the members are looking for a good time. The members feel it is going to be an active club. "Science Club has a lot of real loyal, spirited, members," said Sean Early, Science Club president.

They were involved in the float building during homecoming. Their float was the most inexpensive, only $25.00 but it won first place in the Billy Moore Days parade.

They are planning parties, sponsoring a dance, and taking Mr. Arle out to dinner because he helped so much on their float.

Science Club's float, "Dumbo," won Billy Moore Days Parade float competition.

History And Archeology Clubs Learn Much But Have Plenty Of Time For Fun

by Diane Anderson

History and Archeology Club sponsored by Ken Reed and Roger Warner, history teachers, are similar yet different.

Archeology Club was designed for people who are interested in hiking and learning about history. Archeology Club went on several trips to San Xavier Del Bac, Nino Cochise, Tombstone, and Fort Bowie.

Senior Kristin Shears said, "I enjoy being in the club because it gives me a chance to see parts of Arizona that I might not see otherwise."

History Club was organized for students who are interested in history but don't have it as a class. Mr. Reed added,

"It's also to keep our minds open to the past history."

"I like being in History Club because I can learn about different historical events that are not taught in the history class," said Senior Helen Nickle.

History Club has done many things this year. Members went to ASU to hear a historical lecture, they went to the Planetarium, they took a weekend trip to the Grand Canyon, and listened to Mr. Reed give a slide presentation of all the many places he has lived and been around the world.

They also have a bulletin board in the library to open students minds to world history.

Future Farmer Of America Club Gives Members Experience And Recognition

by Steph Vaughn

The members of the Future Farmers of America club at Agua Fria "participate in leadership activities and contests, and show livestock at fairs. The FFA club is where students receive recognition for the skills they learn in vocational agriculture," states FFA sponsor, Buddy Deimler.

FFA has existed as a club at Agua Fria for twenty-nine years and nationally for fifty-six years. The forty-two Agua Fria members pay $5.00 state dues and their chapter pays the national dues. To be a member of FFA, a student must be enrolled in a vocational agriculture class. Meetings are once or twice a month during which ceremonies, talent shows, and movies are held. Business is conducted and future plans are made. Fund-raisers for FFA are a slave sale in April, an Owl barbeque in November, FFA steers, and farming.

Members can receive special recognition by "showing animals, judging contests, doing community service, receiving a scholarship, or entrepreneurship. They can be recognized in almost any area you can think of!" adds Mr. Deiler.

Luci Stanton, one FFA member, says, "I like FFA because I think it has bettered me as a person. It has taught me leadership and sportsmanship. I have gained experience for judging in my SOEF (supervised occupation experience program). I've also earned money. FFA isn't just for farmers; there are many more aspects of the program."

Mr. Deimler concludes, "Next time you are eating, think about vocational agriculture!"

Michelle Cullum
Being a Freshman is often thought of as being clumsy, timid, or scrawny. But remember you were once a freshman. Freshmen have to start somewhere and the best place is Agua Fria's North Campus. There they have comforting surroundings, nice teachers, and Principal Donald Enz. Since they are freshmen, the people there take an extra interest in caring them for the upcoming years. At North campus it's a freshman, so they are the head of the school, but that all changes when they become sophomores, and move to South campus.

When moving up from being a freshman, to a sophomore, the process is started over again of being just a "little" sophomore. Of course there has been a year added on the sophomore's age, but then again they are the youngest grade on South campus. When they arrive, upper classmen will tell them about how they are dying to take driver's ed. (It's a well known class for the sophomores to take.) There is a sudden "maturity like" change in their attitudes, and they begin to believe they have aged about five years. Jamie Milyn and Sharron Alkier said, "There's nothing good about being a sophomore and can't wait for our junior year." When sophomores get to south campus they are able to join any of the various clubs which are not offered at North campus. Finally they have a taste of what it's like to be at South Campus, and they're ready to become a Junior.

Juniors are a different story. Since they are going on their third year of high school, seniors don't tend to tease them as much. In fact, the school considers them upperclassmen. By the time junior year rolls around, which seems like a lifetime, Juniors really start maturing. They get more serious about their homework, and a lot of them have jobs. The best part about being a Junior is probably the fact that most of them are able to get their driver's license. Jill Maloney feels, "The best part of being a junior is having all of my close friends with me." At the end of the year juniors are sometimes thought to have an early case of senioritis. This is probably because they're looking forward to their upcoming Senior year.

Senior year, the high point of this story, is basically a "kick back year." Of course there's plenty of work and preparing to be done, especially in Free Enterprise, with Mrs. J. Nahears. Tom Bushong feels that "It's a year you can party and still have a reason". The preparing that is to be done is for college. There's the filling out of applications for scholarship, and registering. By the time senior year comes around, it is often expected that seniors want to get "the heck out of there," but actually, many seniors' feelings change. All through their high school years they've been just waiting to come a senior to be "big upper classmen." But when the time is really here, it hurts to think that they'll never be together with that same little group, or go out to lunch and goof off, or play a sport with a special friend. There are a lot of sad goodbye's to be said, the jotting down of last minute phone numbers and addresses, and of course graduation night. At that time seniors forget the sadness and live up their night as a senior.

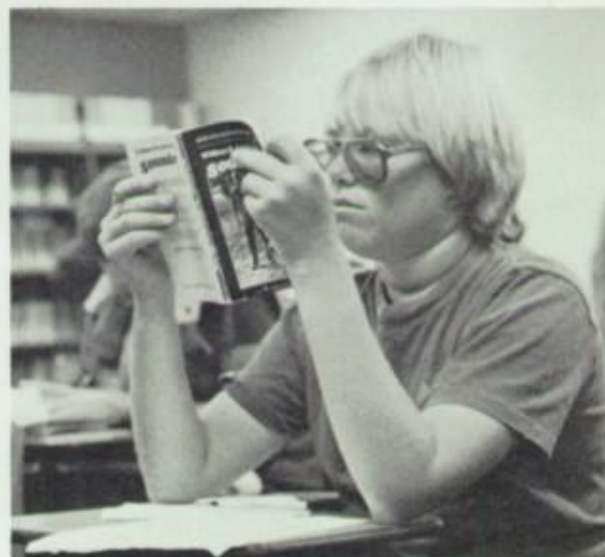

General shop is a Trade and Industry class taught at North Campus, Basic Auto Mechanics is a section of the class, so the student interested will have a good start, before they take more difficult classes at South campus such as, Transmissions.

Frosh: Down Under And All Alone

by Susan Thompson

Is life at the freshman (north) campus really isolated and down under from the upper classman at the South campus?

"It's not like even being in high school," Michael Bell said. "It's like junior high all over again." However, he does like the idea of being underground,

"Yeh, it's cool," said Bell, "I feel like a mole tunneling my way to class."

Debra Simon, also a freshman, added, "It's dumb to have a separate campus. We can't communicate with the upper classmen, also, it's like a jail house not a school." On the other hand Debra added, "It's neat being underground because we're the only high school around here that's like this."

Velma Reed, freshman homecoming attendant said, "I don't like being at a separate campus because I feel left out in activities that go on at South campus, and I don't like being underground either, because it is so closed in."

Frosh Officers Show Their Stuff

by Vanessa Harbert

"It's tough, but it's worth it," says Freshman President, Chris Vizerra. Others on the freshman student council are Stefi Rosztoczy, vice-president; Renae Wichman, secretary; and Cindy Holdcroft, treasurer.

Chris is active in golf and baseball and has above average grades, so according to him, being involved has had no effect on his work. "Before campaigning," Chris said, "he thought of how it would look on his transcripts," and then he went on to succeed.

Vice-president, Stefi Rosztoczy cites around advantages to being on student council. She said, "You learn of upcoming events, meet new people, and you have a chance to voice your opinions." She'll be seeking re-election next year.

Secretary, Renae Wichman and treasurer, Cindy Holdcroft both enjoy being on student council. Renae said, "It's a great chance to get ahead in life." Cindy would like to run for sophomore representative and Renae is going to run for vice-president.

22 See D.C.-Close Up!

by Alicia Solis

This past spring twenty-two students from Agua Fria attended a program in Washington D.C. This educational program called Close-up, increases the knowledge of high school students about their nation's capital city.

In the past, this trip has been extremely successful. Charlie Kimes, senior, said, "We all had a real good time and we learned a lot about Washington D.C." Ms. Leslie Anderson, a social studies teacher, said, "I loved it! It's a great program. It's a very educational experience."

While in Washington D.C., all Close-up members from Agua Fria, Rhode Island, and Michigan high schools had the opportunity to speak with congressmen, lobbyists, and Arizona senators. They also visited the Pentagon, took part in a one day tour of the monuments, attended a dinner and play, and were given one free day to explore the city by themselves.

During this week all students were assigned four to a room in the same hotel. Agua Fria was chaperoned by teacher Mike Smith.

The cost of Close-up this year was set at $800. The students did service projects and various fund raisers to earn money.

Freshmen Help In Library

According to Shirley Hammitt, North Campus librarian, the students in the Library Club work before school, during lunch periods and also during their English class at Friday time.

Their jobs include shelving books, checking books in and out as well as other jobs that occur in a library.

The club meets every other other month. This year they hope to have a field trip sometime in spring.

U.S. Teens Don't Care?

By Rae Anne Carr

Do American teenagers know what's going on in the world?

Senior, Kristin Alkire said, "No, because they don't care. They think they care; everyone thinks he cares, but they don't really know what's going on. They watch the news and think they're studs."

Henning Rogge, senior student from West Germany commented, "Students don't get involved here as much as they do in Europe. They just let the government do whatever it wants, because they don't think they can change anything and so they don't try."

If this is true, then are the students hurting themselves by going through life uninformed or aloof? "I don't think it matters because at this age we can't vote," suggested senior, Mark Paulino. His classmate, Charlie Kimes disagrees, "When you're allowed to vote, you'll be influenced by the opinions you formed as a teenager!"

AF History classes were up on the news enough to easily compile a list of the twelve most important news stories of the year: the Olympics, Baby Faye, the artificial heart, nuclear arms talks, the U.S. presidential election, Ethiopia's troubles, the assassination of Indira Gandhi, the Miss America scandal, the chemical explosion in India, the Lebanon situation and the Central America conflict.

Perhaps U.S. teens know what's going on around them, but treat everything as though it doesn't matter. Lori Ritchey, senior says, "We don't discuss what's going on in the world because we're too self centered to worry about anything that doesn't directly affect us."

'Nothing Spectacular,' but

'What We Did, We Did Well'

by Ed Sandoval

"We haven't accomplished anything spectacular this year, but what we did, we did well. We've been doing everything we can and we've accomplished everything we set out to do," said Shawna Guess, student body president.

Along with Shawna Guess, the executive officers consisted of Rick Wichman, vice president; Janett Viteri treasurer; Ginny Waitt, corresponding secretary; and Kelly Maslyn, recording secretary.

The 1984-85 executive Student Council members: Shawna Guess, president Rick Wichman, vice president Janett Viteri, treasurer Ginny Waitt, corresponding secretary Kelly Maslyn, recording secretary.

What would she do or plan to do if she had a chance to do it all over again? Guess said, "I feel we need to get more organized."

Wichman commented that in Student Council, "I've learned to deal with people more and to deal with situations and pressure. The Student Council convention we attended, helped me see that overall, we are the best school."

Viteri would like to get more people in Student Council. She feels more people in student council would help it to become more organized. Waitt said, "I feel like I have a better knowledge of the function of the Student Council and in all it was a good year."

Maslyn said that if she had a chance to do it all over again, she would try to get a "morp" where the girls ask the guys to the prom (opposite of a prom) and she would also try to help the new students, especially the foreign exchange students become orientated to school.

by Beth Barber

Besides holding the job of sophomore class president, Scott Camacho enjoys working and planning activities with the other members of the council and being a member of Key club. He says it's a lot of hard work, but it's fun.

"I promise to try my best, to do my best!" said Ruben Maldonado in his speech for vice-presidency of the sophomore class. As the vice-president of the sophomore class, Ruben said he enjoys working with the group and likes the way everyone has pulled together to get things done. Other activities enjoyed by Ruben include J.V. football and track.

The position of Secretary belongs to Diana Vasquez, who is also a member of the J.V. cheerleading squad. Diana says, "I am always willing to get done what is needed to be done."

Being Treasurer of the sophomore student council is a big job which Gabrielle Nickell seems to handle with ease. She enjoys drama, cross country, track, choir and Key club. Gabrielle has also been very active in her class and supports it with her utmost enthusiasm.

Some of the activities the Sophomore class has done to raise funds, such as the selling of buttons and the school dance, have brought many of the class members closer together, the officers said.

All That Noise! Can You Study?

by Dia Jorgenson

In the library, not all is quiet. There's noise. Instead of people studying, they're talking with their friends. Why? "I have to have noise to study," said Martha McKenna, junior.

Noise seemed to be the one element most everyone agreed they needed to study. James Hood, junior, said he "cranks" his stereo and has the television going with the volume turned off when he studies. Most students agree that when there's music or sound, concentrating on studying is easier. They're more compelled to really think about it.

What about before finals, the most important tests of the year? Do students cram and hope they've learned enough already, or do they really study for them? Steve Markawski, junior, said he's going to glance at his notes before class and hope for the best.

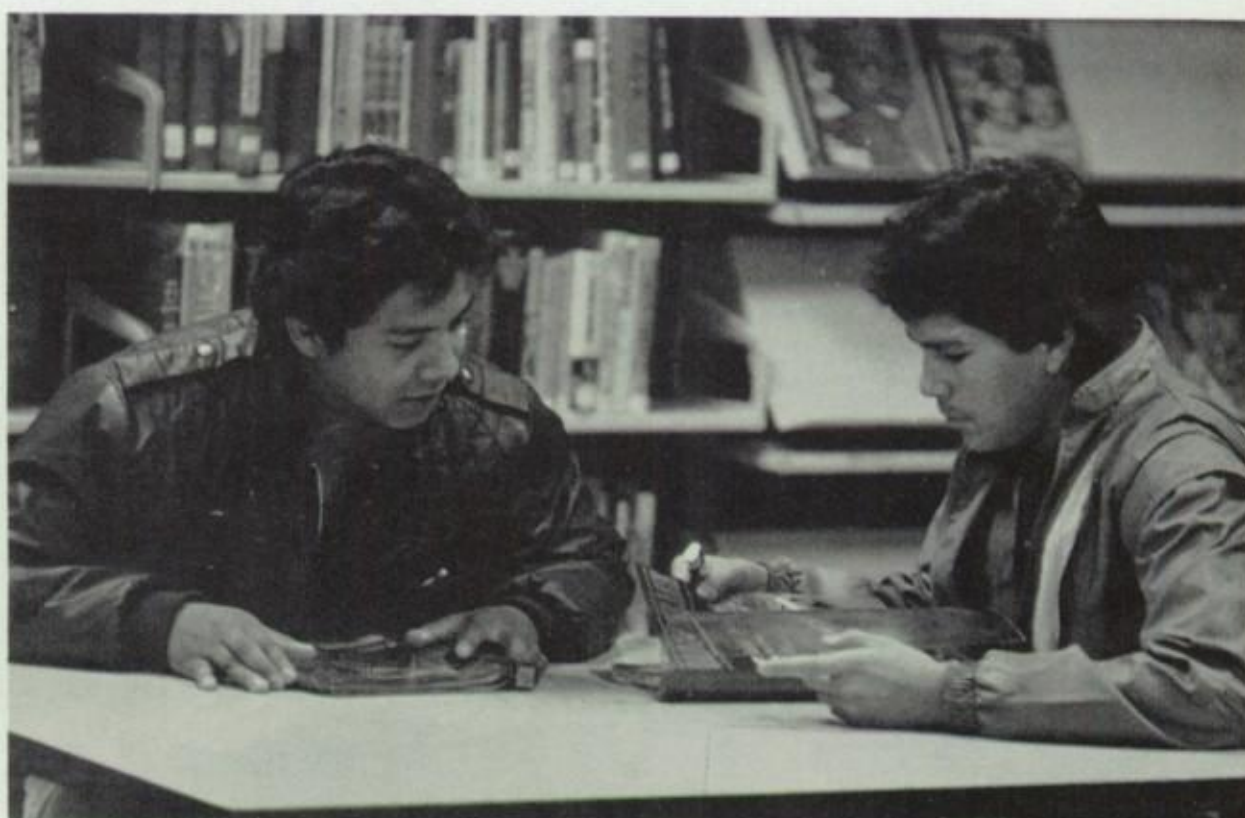

"I'll study for my problem classes but I'll cram for everything else right before," was the comment from sophomore Rhonda Wiley.

Mary Kennedy, sophomore, said she was "going into seclusion and hope for the best."

Whether the T.V. is on, the radio blasting, or there's complete silence, your study habits are your own and they must work for you.

Dawn Gilmore's attention is taken away by a delicate whisper, while studying in the library.

Taking time off from studying, Marcy Levario and Robert Morales look through a magazine.

Today's Music Displayed At AF

by Patty Boothman

The music of today has been gaining much attention. This past year, there has been an emergence of unique pop-soul artists such as Prince, Madonna, and Sheila E. The ever popular punk sounds with bands such as Suicidal Tendencies, T.S.O.L., and P.I.L. (see related story on page 20: British Invasion). Last but not least, the form that has attracted a wider and younger audience, the infamous Heavy Metal.

1984 proved to be a favorable one for many bands as RATT, W.A.S.P., Twisted Sister, Queensrÿche, and Phoenix's own Icon. Many events surfaced. Van Halen was successful with their album, '1984,' the first to have Eddie Van Halen's keyboard expertise. Other events: The regrouping of the legendary Deep Purple; the great Robert Plant, Jimmy Page, and Jeff Beck joining forces to form the Honeydrippers; Jimmy Page starting his own band, The Firm; Castle Donnington held in England which featured such heavy metal heavyweights as Iron Maiden, Mötley Crüe, and Ozzy Osbourne; and Iron Maiden behind the Iron Curtain, their first tour of the Soviet countries.

There were also unexpected tragedies that marked the year 1984. The death of Hanoi Rocks drummer, Razzle, which involved the Crüe's Vince Neil, put the future of both Mötley Crüe and Hanoi Rocks on hold; the unfortunate accident which caused Rick Allen, drummer for Def Leppard, to lose his left arm making his future with Leppard very doubtful.

Despite these tragedies, the year was very successful. And the growing popularity of Heavy Metal is apparent with the students here at AF. It is becoming more widely accepted and it gives them a chance to rebel against things they are opposed to that adults feel are right. After all, "You don't have to be old to be wise!" The following are responses from students when asked the questions, Why do you like Heavy Metal? What is your favorite group(s) and why?

Junior Carrie Roberts: "It's the only type of music to listen to. Judas Priest and Led Zeppelin are my favorites because they brought people's attention to Heavy Metal."

Cam McCown, junior: "I like Heavy Metal because of the feeling it gives people. I mean that when you turn on those tunes, you don't care about a thing anymore, you just kick back and listen. I don't have a favorite group, just as long as they're headbangers like Maiden, Accept, Metallica, and Priest."

Junior Carri Kitchens: "Heavy Metal is the only music for me. I really like the loud guitars. I don't have one specific favorite band, but as long as they have headbanging music, I'll like them."

Senior Joey Pompa, "Here's Bruce Dickinson explaining why - yeah, what's happening all you Hell Rats, Metal Merchants and Maniacs. Heavy Metal is hard driving Rock and nothing comes close. Iron Maiden is hard driving metal and no one comes close when it comes to their music."

Jeff Larson, junior, "I like Heavy Metal because when you wanna get going, you just jam on some good tunes. My favorite group is Mötley Crüe. Their song 'Shout at the Devil' is what you have to do."

Perhaps heavy metal will always be popular with the young and those young at heart. Its rebellious nature, youthful energy and hard rocking sounds make it what it is and also make it so appealing. But music in general will have a place with AF students, no matter what type.

Album covers have played a significant role in Heavy Metal record sales. They typify the Heavy Metal attitude with which the youth of today have come to identify.

Fashion Stays Casual At AF

Agua Fria had many fashion conscious students wearing their best for the 1984-85 school year. Among the best was the new "neon" apparel that started a clothing trend for girls. Still others resorted to the "new wave" and traditional preppy look which also made a fashion statement on campus.

Articles including faded jeans, pullover sweaters, bandanas worn over the neck, cropped pants, loose belts, pumps and low heeled shoes, and baggy and wrinkled clothing kept styles casual at Agua Fria.

Ruth Cunningham, Rodi Fisher, and Vanessa Cunningham, seniors, model three different fashion styles.

Karen Prieto, senior, shows us a new 1985 look.

Just For Parking Cars? Nah!

by Michael Lira

At AF there lies a virtually unknown if not overlooked part of the South Campus. This specific part of the school is by far one of the most populated, barren, liked, and disliked sections of the school. But where could this place possibly be if it were on this campus? The parking lot, of course.

Yes, the parking lot, where guys show off their cars and skill, where friends bum rides from friends, where Mr. Given has a heart attack directing traffic, and where driving over 35 M.P.H. is the norm. When students were asked what place they thought was the most occupied and liked part of the school they replied with many answers. Some said it was the cafeteria, gymnasium, auditorium and classrooms while others said it was the library and bathrooms. But statistically, the parking lot, with the exception of the classroom, is the most occupied part of the school.

There are many reason why the parking lot is the most favorite of all school locations. Evan Boyd, junior, said, "I like it (the parking lot) because I see all my friends at one time and because it means there is no more school for the day, yeah!" Another reason was given by David Kessler, sophomore. He commented, "Because there are so many chicks to look at."

So there you have it, a few reasons why the parking lot is liked, most of all. But that doesn't mean it is the most notable of all places on this campus. So maybe next time you walk, run, or drive through the parking lot you'll say to yourself, "Gee, I'm in the most crowded and unique place of this school."

Seniors Chris Cole and Rosemary Garcia use the parking lot to socialize.

Class Rings, A Big Decision

by Dia Jorgenson and Monica Viteri

Part of being in high school is the academic aspect; the other part is socializing and getting involved. The best part of it is after graduation and four or five years down the line there are memories to look back on. One of those memories is a class ring, something to look at and remember those, "best years of your life."

Although the price of a class ring is usually high, some students feel that it is worth it.

"A class ring is worth everything you put in it. We've gone to school for thirteen years and we deserve something to show for it," said Carl Johnson, junior.

The pride put into the gold or silver band that goes on an AF students' finger makes the selection of styles overwhelming. Some students feel that getting rings during their senior year rather than their junior year would help them make a better decision on what to put on the ring.

"I wish we had gotten them when we were seniors instead of juniors because things change in your senior year quicker than they change in any other," said Kristen Alkire, senior.

During junior year, students are given five pamphlets, when going through Josten's to choose their ring. There are the Classics, After Five, and the Sports Collection that have anywhere from seven to 50 different rings in them.

Students can also design their own ring to suit the sports, organizations, and even astrological signs that they belong to. Names and sidestones are two of the extras students can have put on the rings, and these extras can cause the price of the ring to jump. This of course is no secret and looking at other jeweler's selections is recommended before buying through the school.

Some students feel that the disadvantages of buying a class ring outweigh the advantages. Derek Risley (senior), explains why he didn't buy a class ring:

"Because they cost way too much and they're useless pieces of tin."

Michelle Muldovan explained:

"I see no sense in buying them because you can only wear them during your high school years and after that they get contributed into the junk drawer."

For some people, a class ring holds no value, but to others it brings back memories of their high school years.

Debbie Harris, senior, and Debbie Temple, Junior, talk about which class ring they would like.

Junior Officers Strive For Success

Junior Class officers were given a great deal of responsibility. Not only did they have to finance the Prom, but they also had to create a homecoming float and organize the spring dance.

With the motivation of the class officers, the whole Junior Class sold candy and some dedicated juniors worked at the concession stand during football games in order to raise money for the Prom.

Rachel Brockey, Junior Class president, said, "Putting on the Prom was harder than I thought it would be. I'm glad the entire Junior Class got involved, it made things a lot easier."

The Junior Class sponsors were Guy Smith, Joe Cooper, Patsy Koontz, Lloyd

Purcell, Deborah Raffin, Robert Trout, and Linda Wilkins. Other class officers included vice-president, Chris Nuels; secretary, Gina Doubleday; treasurer, Kelly Smith; and the representatives, Matt Lopez, Cara Moyers, Julie White, and Laura Worthy.

Is Hackey Sack Moving In

Many participate in noontime activities because, "they are fun and they let you have a chance to compete," says Alfred Medrano, senior.

Perhaps the two most popular games are volleyball and hackey sack. Most people know how to play volleyball, but hackey sack isn't quite as universal.

The object of hackey sack is to keep a small, round, sandfilled sack in the air by using feet, knees, head, etc. (except hands). This is done by a group standing in a circle. The game proves to be a simple and fun past time during AF lunch hours.

A game of volleyball is just what juniors, Todd Barker and Charlie Wolff need as a break from classrooms.

Concerts Affect School Life

by Tim Moreno

At Agua Fria, many students as well as a few teachers attend concerts. Many cliques on campus are influenced by the music they listen to. Their apparel also reflects the type of music they like. Concerts are said to influence the teenagers' mind, schoolwork, and of course, the pocketbook.

Do concerts really influence the decisions teens make? Freshman Nick Banaszak replied, "Different types of music we listen to decide what groups we hang out in because of peer pressure."

Senior Rusty McCoy explained, "Concerts give us teens a chance to express our individualism and they provide us with some relaxation."

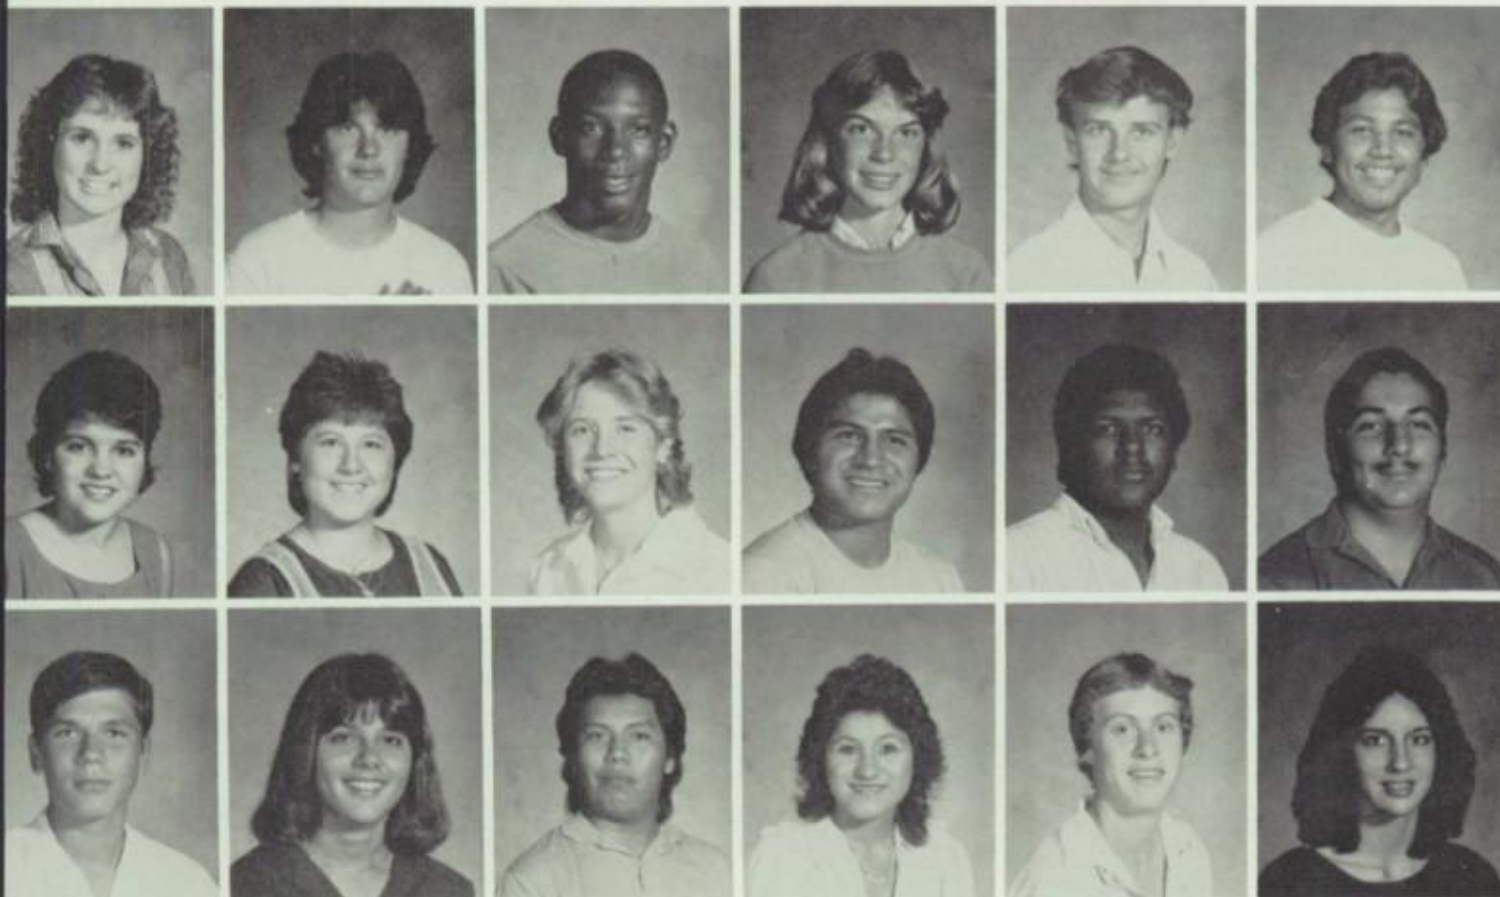

Does attending a concert on a school night prevent a student from doing his schoolwork? Freshman Michele Roberts commented that, "I wouldn't have time to even think of doing my homework." On the other hand, Senior Chris Bayles said, "It would depend upon the class; if it were mandatory like free enterprise, I would surely do it."

Aside from cliques and schoolwork, what about the cost of going to concerts? Are concerts worth it or a waste of money? Junior John Sahuahui said, "They (concerts) seem to be a waste (of money), but you may only get to see them once." On the contrary, English teacher Karen Hepting replied, "I think concerts are well worth the money because you get to see what the performers look like and act besides just hearing their voices on a radio."

Joey Pompa, senior, and Jim Roles, sophomore, show off their favorite group, the ever-popular Iron Maiden.

Announcements Provide Cram Time

by Rae Anne Carr

It's seventh hour. Twenty-nine students are stirring at their seats, looking for the homework they know they put in this book. What about yesterday's lecture notes? There are only two minutes before the tardy bell rings. Maybe the announcements will be long enough to give them time to cram for the pop quiz.

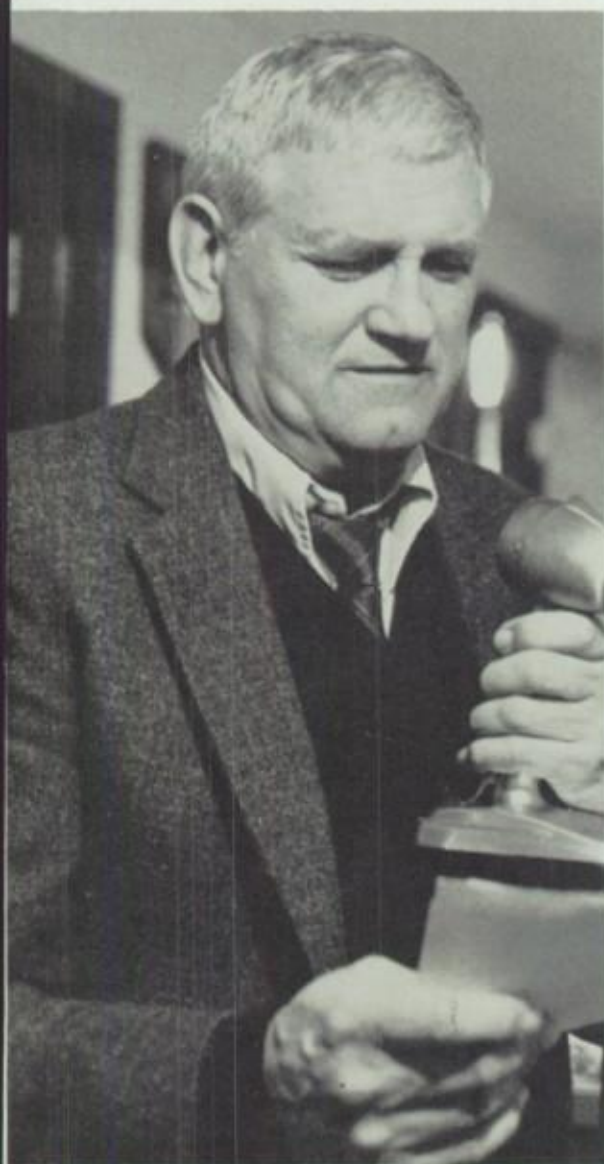

In the office, Duane Given, principal, is glancing through the pile of announcement requests and preparing to send the students home well informed.

The bell rings while everyone is still searching for their homework. The announcements crackle over the intercom with a list of club meetings (which obviously few people hear), rundowns of recent sports events, and he adds, "Remember, it's 'Honor first, win or lose.' " Then it's time for one of Mr. Given's "personal talks" to the student body. Will it be the top ten test tips or maybe the repeated threat of taking away Friday's schedule if the student body doesn't come down on those "seven or eight" students who are trashing South Campus? The latter will let everyone study longer since it is such a serious problem which requires drawn out drillings.

After he has enlightened his audience, Mr. Given assumes the look of accomplishment and transforms back to AF's principal. The students thrust their books under their desks and the quiz starts.

Nightlife Is Limited At AF

by Shelley Hunt

When the sun sets in Avondale, Goodyear, Litchfield Park and White Tanks the fun begins to dawn. Basketball games, movies, dance clubs and parties are just a few of the night time activities that take place on Friday and Saturday nights. When asked the question: What do you like about the nightlife in the Agua Fria High School District, Casey Kennedy, senior, replied, "The parties are really great; everyone gets along when partying together."

Dance clubs are becoming more popular every year. No dance clubs are located in this area, but many travel long distances to dance and converse with new acquaintances and old ones. "I like to go to dance clubs because I always meet interesting guys." Kaki Hunt, junior, replied. "I also like to get away from the house for awhile."

Tommy's, Struts, Party Gardens and Devil House are the most popular dance clubs around.

Basketball games and movies are not as popular as they once were. "Movies and basketball games are fun with your boyfriend and girlfriend, but when you're with a group of friends you like to be wild." Kirsten Johnson, junior, said.

Although Agua Fria High School District is growing, it has not grown enough for teens to be content with the nightlife provided.

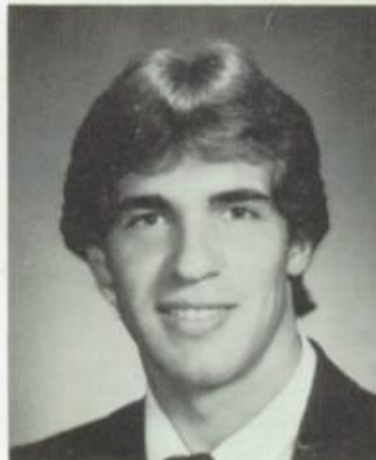

AF after-game dances remained very popular.

Car Vs. Bus: The Car Prevails

by Rodi Fisher

Students find many different ways to get to school. Among these are walking, riding a bicycle, or having their parents drop them off. The two most popular ways of transportation to school are driving a car or riding the school bus.

The advantages of driving to school are often greater than riding the bus. Students believe that driving to school gives them more independence and greater responsibility. Gina Greer, senior, who drives her car to school comments, "I like driving my car to school because I feel more independent when I don't have to rely on the bus."

Carolyn Russo, junior, likes driving to school because, "I can leave whenever I want to, I don't have to wait for the bus."

Many students prefer driving to school but can not because they do not have a car or they are not old enough to drive. Students who have to ride the bus dislike the atmosphere and the adolescent feeling of their dependence on the bus.

Lara Lindsey, junior, replied when asked why she disliked riding the bus, "I don't like riding the bus to school because it takes too long and I have to wake up too early." Although many students have to ride the bus to school, the favorite type of transportation seems to be driving the car to school.

Glen Bachman and Rocco Monoco prepare to leave school. Students anxiously load the bus.

'That's Your Younger Brother?'

by Mike Lira

Each and every new school year there seems to be many questions concerning certain people on the South Campus, namely older or younger family members. Their given name — siblings. Many questions are asked about them such as, "Is that your older sister? ... she's beautiful!" or "That's your younger brother? Nah, you've got to be joking?"

At Agua Fria there is a vast majority of siblings. Too much for one to actually know. Some of their friends might ask themselves what does it feel like to have an older brother or younger sister attending the same campus as they are. Well, there are many possible answers.

One of those questions was asked of Kelly Germana, junior. She said, "I think it's really nice having an older brother in the same grade. It makes it convenient."

One would also wonder if these siblings had the same friends. Mary Kennedy, junior said, "Most of her (sister) friends first recognized me as being her sister but liked me later for the person I am."

Does going to school on the same campus have it's benefits? For Yolanda Gonzales, sophomore, it does. She replied, "It makes me feel good to know that there's someone I can borrow money from for lunch!" So then it is proven: the only thing you get from a sibling attending the same campus as you is pure benefit.

In Mock Election

It's Reagan Over Mondale

The 1984 Presidential election saw Ronald Reagan with a commanding landslide over Walter Mondale not only nationally, but in the mock election here at Agua Fria, also.

423 students who took part in the mock election voted for their favorite candidate.

Reagan did very well among students and voters nationally, too.

Why did students vote for Reagan? "I voted for Reagan because I liked where he stood on his position in the economy and foreign affairs and I liked him as a human being," said Rusty McCoy, senior reflecting the opinion of many other students.

Voting in the mock election are Debbie Temple, Cheryl Johnson, Sherry Diggs and Michelle Moldovan.

Election Results

Nationally:

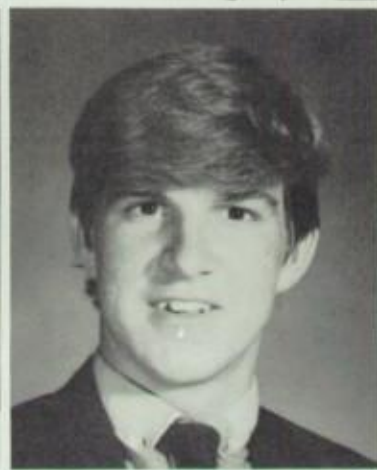

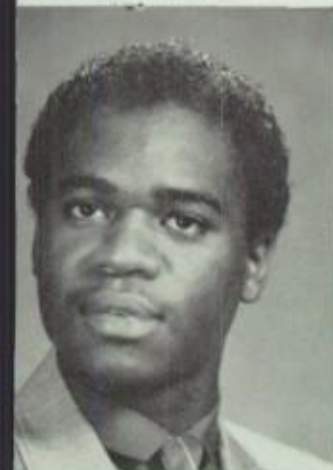

Ronald Reagan 59%
Walter Mondale 41%

Traditions Still Stand At AF

Agua Fria Union High School has many well-known traditions.

When a pep assembly is held for a football or basketball game, the spirited crowd stands and claps immediately when the fight song is being played while the players come out of the locker room. Not only are spirits sky high when a victory is made, but the victory flag is raised. Teresa Gonzales says, "I think the raising of the victory flag is a great way of showing our pride."

The Junior, Senior Prom and the Christmas Formal are nearly always a success. Everyone dresses in their formal clothes, and takes pictures, and usually goes out for dinner either before or after these social functions.

During Homecoming week not only do the students get involved but also the faculty. They all compete in the class competitions such as the sack race, pie eating contest, and donut hang. There is dress up theme for each day of the week in which almost everyone participates.

These are just a few of the traditions that are held here at Agua Fria the "National School of Excellence."

Work, School: Double Trouble

by Dan Mukvicha

Many students have taken on a double responsibility. First they must go to school, second, they must go to work. Brian Ames, senior, said, "It's hard to keep up your grades when you have to work all the time."

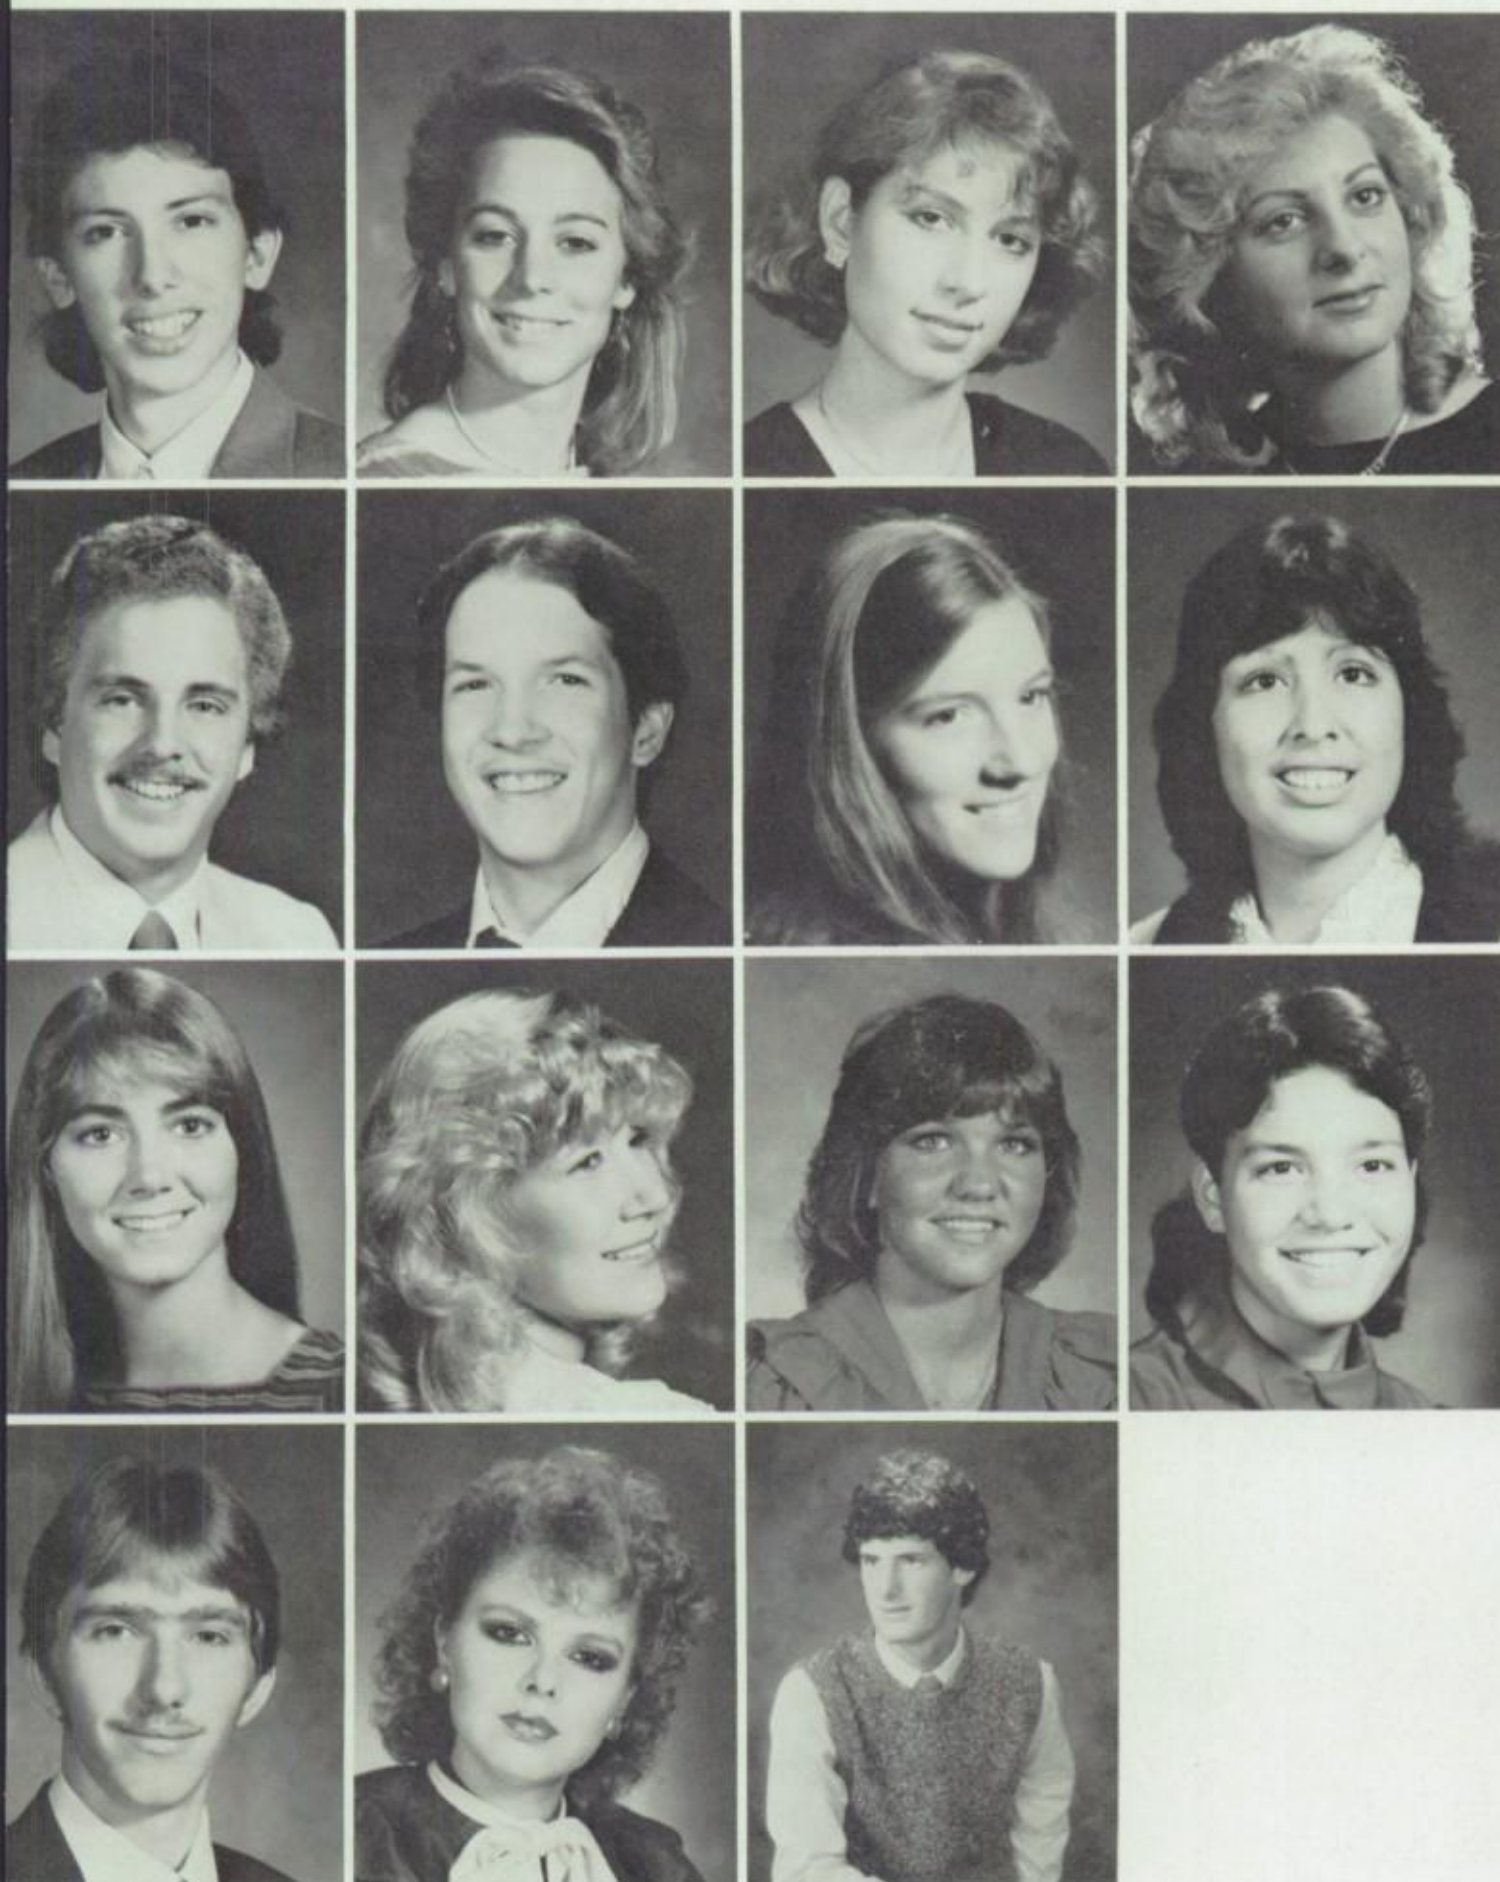

It is important that they keep a good attendance record. They must be on time to both school and work, "It's a lot of hard work, but it pays off in the long run," said Mike Mays, senior who works at McDonalds.

There are disadvantages to working too. Neil Blaine, senior, said, "It's very hard to keep up with homework and continue to work. He works as a bagger at the Luke A.F.B. Commissary.

Each student has their own reason for working. Brian works to earn money to fix up his car, Mike works for spending money and Neil is working to save money for college.

Mike Mays, senior, adds the cheese to the cheeseburgers.

'Pulling' In The Cash

by Sharon Mosier

The sound of piercing shot guns run through one's head as he stands on a trap and skeet field. Many students at Agua Fria had the opportunity to experience the suffering while working. The guide lines that were agreed upon were students had to have teacher and parental approval, had to make up homework, and had to provide their own transportation.

The job mainly consists of two positions, pulling and setting. The pullers sit in a chair, take score, and release the pigeon upon command. The setters' main purpose is to set the pigeons on the machine during a round.

This opportunity allows a student to get hand-to-hand experience of working and dealing with the "real world." Most importantly to the students, it allows them to make a good quantity of money. David Malik, sophomore said, "I joined Trap and Skeet for the money and to meet the wonderful girls that work there. It was a great way to get out of school too!"

Steve Ross, senior, added a bit of advice, "Don't get mad at the shooters if you work there!" Besides what the students reveal, working gives one adult responsibilities to deal with. The student is depended upon to do the job right. Also the reputation of the school is at hand. It gives the students a chance to relate with a job atmosphere and take on some of the pressures.

Angela Crawford, junior, Connie Killion, senior, and Paula Arellano, sophomore, were three of the Trap and Skeet workers.

Floats Prompt Class Competition

by Rodi Fisher

What inspired friendly competition among classes and provided weeknight entertainment for all students during Homecoming week? The answer; the building of Homecoming floats.

Many students turned out through out the week either after school or evenings to participate in making their class float the best. Lisa Humphreys, junior, commented, "I liked being able to work on the floats weeknights during the week because you got to see all of your friends and have a good time working together."

In previous years the building of class floats was held at students' houses. This year all of the floats were constructed in one large warehouse where students could be properly supervised. When asked how they felt about having all of the class floats in one place, senior, Pam Mackenthun replied "It was fun being around people in the other classes but it didn't create any suspense about what each class float looked like."

Crystal Parker, junior, replied, "I didn't like it as well because you weren't surprised about how other peoples float looked." The teachers also constructed a float to participate in the fun and competition.

Tammy Olague, junior, concentrates on her work.

Sally Whorl and Shara Mosely busily stuff the apron for the Senior Class float.

Senior Officers Get Busy

by Tammy Curtis

The Senior Class officers consisted of Kristen Shears, Michelle Cullum, Alicia Solis, and Dawn Miller.

President, Kristen Shears plays the most important part out of all the senior class officers. Kristen puts a lot of time and effort into this job. She has to get all the meetings together and make sure everything is going smoothly.

Kristen said "I think the senior class officers purpose is to represent the senior class." Kristen is also involved in Cross Country, Photo Staff, History Club, Drama Club, and Archeology Club, yet Kristen still has time to put all her effort into being president of the senior class.

Michelle Cullum, the senior class Vice-President, attends meetings, gives ideas and opinions, and is available to the underclassmen if they have any questions. Cullum was also the managing editor of the yearbook and manager of Pom and Cheer.

Treasurer Dawn Miller feels that the purpose of the class officers is to represent the senior class and get things accomplished. Dawn is involved in Key Club, Interact, FCA, National Honor Society, and Letter Club. Her job is to keep track of the money, and is in charge of all the fund-raisers.

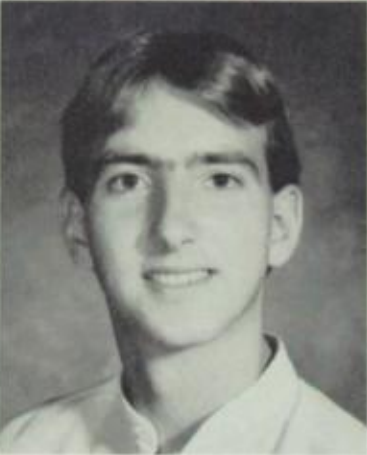

As secretary, Alicia Solis takes notes on all the activities and attends all meetings which she contributes by giving some of her own ideas. Alicia is pom captain, plays badminton, basketball, and is on the honor roll.

Senior officers are Kirsten Shears, Michelle Cullum, Dawn Miller, Alicia Solis.

Senioritis . . . Inevitable But Temporary

by Rae Anne Carr

Underclassmen, this story is for you to understand the seniors' pendulous attitudes and possibly ease the severity of your inevitable case of this ailment.

Seniors, this story is not a psychological explanation of your feelings this year. It is for you to read years from now when you want to be back in high school, and laugh over wanting to have thrown in the towel so many times when you were there.

Senioritis is not defined in Webster's dictionary, but everyone interviewed for this story knew its meaning from experience. Well defined by Brenda Venables, senior, "Senioritis is the contagious feeling which strikes all persons entering their fourth year at Agua Fria. It is a feeling of superiority, joy, remorse and mostly excitement and fear."

When we were in grammar school, high school seemed too far away to think about. By our freshman year, we were hearing, "These are the best years of your life and they are the ones that count!"

True, our permanent transcripts would be affected by nearly everything we did, but so what? We still had four years left to prove ourselves.

Those four years vaporized. We've been wanting this seniority for a long time. Now it's here. Is it as we pictured it? Kristen Shears, senior class president, doesn't think so, "I thought it'd be easier, and that I'd be ready for the world. You just pretend to have it all together."

We find ourselves asking many questions. Did we get the most out of "the best years of our lives?" Most students agree that if they had the years to do over, they would want to "get more involved with things."

Did our class become closer and more mature? Are we ready to leave each other the day of graduation? Michelle Moldovan, senior, says, "No! I'm going to cry when I graduate. It'll never be the same again."

Are there fears and worries? Pam Mackenthun, senior, simply dread, "the world — just being out there!"

We will all hopefully come to terms with these questions by May 30, 1985. The anxiety will end and era of our lives will be over.

As long as we: look at it as our own, individual experience without comparison to others', understand the changes and relationships and realize the growth and knowledge we gained is vital, this natural feeling of senioritis will be in vain.

Fulton Continues 28 Year Career

by Shelley Hunt

August 28, 1957, was a great day for Agua Fria High School, for this was the day O.K. Fulton started his ever moving career here. Before taking the new job and a $1200 raise, he was teaching and coaching at Round Valley High.

Mr. Fulton discusses the 1984-85 Student Handbook, before the year begins.

Mr. Fulton was brought into this world a second generation native in Snowflake, Arizona on September 14, 1942.

The previous jobs he has held here at Agua Fria have been many and varied. The classes he has taught have been physical education, earth science, and biology. He has coached basketball, golf, football and baseball. Mr. Fulton has also been the Athletic Director for the past 23 years.

What does he like about the student body at Agua Fria? Mr. Fulton replied, "The Seniors have had the best attendance ever and the problems have been minimal." He dislikes the apathy and indifference students have for grasping opportunities.

His most memorable years have been 1962, when he and his team won the basketball championships; 1974, when he was selected National Athletic Director, 1982, when he was selected Grand Marshall of the Billy Moore Parade and 1984, when he was voted into the Arizona Coaches Hall of Fame.

Although, these were all very memorable years, he adds, "There's always something about each class that makes it memorable."

His views on how high school have changed are these:

"The biggest single change has been student rights. In the '50's and early '60's, the students were highly motivated and eager to learn. During the late '60's and all through the '70's, was the era of the "turned off" generation. Now I see the students once again highly motivated."

When asked about his future plans he took a short sigh and replied, "Gee, it's hard to say. I'm happy where I am and what I'm doing, but I'm always open for anything that comes along."

Reed, Judge: A Traveler And An Actor

Todd Ledford, senior, consults Kim Reed, social studies teacher, about an assignment. Mr. Reed uses his travel experiences to enliven his lessons.

by Mike Lira

At one time or another during the school year a student or teacher might have asked himself, "Who is in charge and directs those school plays?" The answer all the time is Mr. Byron Judge. Yes, it is Mr. Judge, that very neatly dressed, articulate teacher who can be seen in or around the Drama room.

He was born and raised in New Orleans, Louisiana, but has also lived in the Midwest. Years ago, he came to Arizona where he now is director of the Agua Fria drama department.

He caught on to acting at a very early age. He was cast in his first play when he was in the fifth grade. What made him do it? He said, "When I got hit in the head by a soccer ball, I immediately knew sports were not for me. Another reason is that being a Pisces one tends to be creative and I find that its attributes does not tell a lie."

He is a very cultured person. Of course one usually is when he travels to Europe with a musical troupe. He has been to many countries in Europe and he finds Italy to be one of the most interesting of all, but music isn't his first love — it is acting.

Would he ever consider going into acting as a full time career? He commented, "Yes, but at the moment there are too many starving actors in the streets."

He had the chance to play hit parts in major films such as F.I.S.T., starring that Italian Stallion himself, Sylvester Stallone. Another movie he was cast in was, Take This Job And Shove It, starring the star of Airplane, Robert Hayes. He cites Clint Eastwood and Catherine Hepburn as being his most favorite actor and actress.

Not only does he sing and act but he directs. He now has five major school plays to his directing credit with the last play, A Christmas Carol, being his favorite.

by Ruth Cunningham

"No question about it - the students. Our student body represents a wide cross-section academically, racially and economically. This makes teaching a pleasure," replied Mr. Ken Reed, after being asked about why he enjoyed teaching here at Agua Fria. Mr. Reed has been teaching for 17 years, his last 13 here. He teaches American History and World History. When asked how she felt about Mr. Reed, Kirsten Johnson, junior, replied. "He is a really good teacher and he cracks me up. He makes being in his class enjoyable."

He has been on many trips to different places around the world. His most recent trip was a Fulbright Scholarship to China. He got the Scholarship by applying to the U.S. Department of Education. One teacher was selected from each state. He was chosen Arizona representative.

The year before, he went on a tour through Europe. The tour covered England, Netherlands, Belgium, Germany and France. His wife enjoys traveling, also. His hobbies include fixing up a 1957 Triumph sports car, and playing golf.

Byron Judge, drama teacher, demonstrated how to apply stage makeup.

The Goodwins' Unique Home

by Rae Anne Carr

Five years ago, Coach Tom Goodwin saw an underground house and decided that he wanted one. He and his wife, Mary Goodwin ordered the house kit and began the eight month undertaking.

The kit included the basic structure for the house and someone to work with them for 30 hours to get them started.

After that, they were on their own. They hired some workers and received help from students Tom Bushong, Gary Luellan, John Johnson, and Mark Dickson.

The construction cost was no more than a regular house and it is less expensive to live in. The house uses very little air conditioning and no heat.

Although there aren't any large windows, there is a huge sky light which allows for natural sunlight and at night, a starry view. The only disadvantage to having this unique home is all the land scaping that is necessary to prevent flooding.

When finished, because of changed floor plans, the house turned out bigger and better than they expected.

Left: The Goodwins' house is under construction. Above: Mary Goodwin and her mother are examining what will be the den.

It's A Production

Fun and experience was the game provided for students of the team classes. Teachers involved in team activities such as Jim O'Brien, Crystal Stephens as well as Karen Whitney, Dick Himebuagh and four others showed these students the proper yet enjoyable way to produce a play.

Although this play project was started and then dropped three years ago, Principal Duane Given has emphasized the need to redo the project year after year. All the teachers and staff involved felt it was a learning experience for their students, although this play project was required for those student's grades.

The teacher's play this year was titled "Gun Shy." It was taped on Nov. 16. In turn, the students then did their production of their play on Dec. 17 and 18.

Who's Paying For It?

"Why are ads in the yearbook?" That is a question asked by many of the students at AF. The ads are there because staffers need a way to raise money pay for the yearbook.

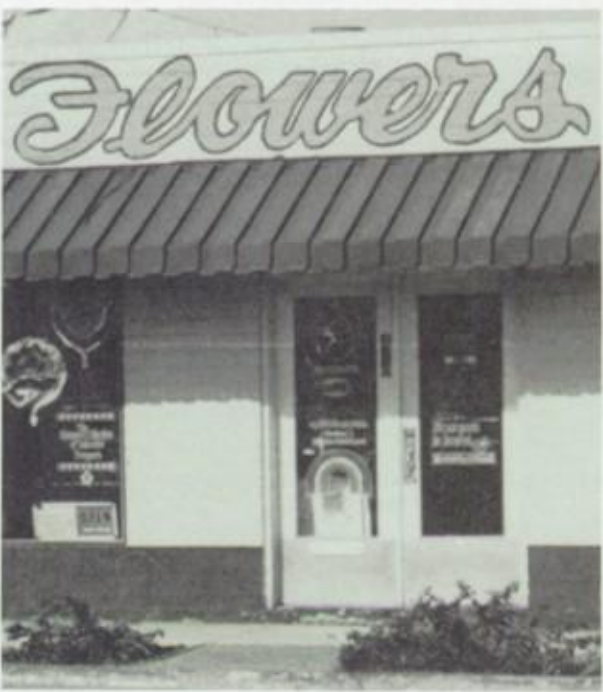

The staffers, starting from about two weeks into school, went out during their lunch or the yearbooks sixth hour class, hustling to get businesses in the community to buy ads. The ads run anywhere from $15 to $150, and patron to full page sizes. There was a deadline for the ads to be in, and the staff ended up making well over $2000. The staffers first quarter grade depended on the amount sold or the dollar amount of the ads, so "everyone was busy," said Joe Pfeiff, adviser.

So the next time you're flipping through, signing autographs on these "neatly designed pages," take a look and see just "Who's paying for it."

When entering Goodyear this sign shows the outstanding organizations in the city, such as the Lions Club.

White Shears flower shop was established about 25 years ago by the Shears family, and is now owned by Carol Helland.

Among the two shopping centers in Goodyear, is Revco, available for all your pharmaceutical needs.

McDonalds is the most popular fast food restaurant with AF students. The students show loyalty by, eating there at lunchtime, after games and on weekends before, or after parties.

In Litchfield, Mayfair Market, is the only grocery store within the community. Mayfair has been in Litchfield for at least nine years.

Being Yourself

Shawna Guess and Mike Simington were voted as having the Most Class Spirit. Shawna shows her spirit by being the captain of the 1985 Varsity Cheerline, student body president, attending various games and school activities, and by being an active member in a number of school organizations. Mike is that voice in the crowd, cheering the teams on.

"I don't think a person should be inhibited by the 'cool' people, just let yourself go!" Shawna said. Depending on the college she attends, she may plan to tryout for a pom or cheerline and carry on her enthusiasm elsewhere.

Depending On Each Other

Voted as Most Dependable Rae Anne Carr and Terence Kelling. "I think it's really neat that Terence and I got this together, because we depend on each other all of the time!" said Rae Anne. For Rae Anne and Terence being depended on is there nature. Neither would think twice about sacrificing something, to do a favor for a friend. Terence plans to attend Notre Dame, and become independently wealthy. Rae Anne is moving back East to attend the David Lipscomb College, of Nashville, Tennessee, to become a psychiatrist.

Just Being Happy.

Tim Frank and Debbie Rickel, were voted the Most Likely To Succeed.

Tim isn't sure what college he wants to attend, but he has applied to several. Tim, who plans to be an engineer, said his idea of success was, "To be happy! Being financially stable is a part of it too, I mean I don't want to be on 'Skid Row!'"

Debbie will continue her education at ASU, and study to be a pediatrician. Both Debbie and Tim feel being successful in school is a priority, but there are a lot of other things they like to be involved in too!

Don't Be Embarrassed

Voted as the Class Flirts are Carrie Corbett and Paul Sarver. Carrie is going to continue schooling to become a Travel Agent. Paul can't wait to go into the Air Force and learn to fly F-15's and F-16's. "Flirting is being yourself around guys and not being embarrassed," Carrie said. Paul believes successful flirting is accomplished by "good eye contact." When asked if she flirted with guys, or if guys flirted with here? Carrie replied, "I think I'm more friendly to the guys." When Paul was asked the same question about girls, he said, "It's about even."

Badminton To Baseball

Alicia Solis and Roy Samenigo were voted Most Athletic. Alicia played Varsity Badminton and Varsity Basketball, this year. She has played badminton for three years, tennis for one year, and basketball for two years, her favorite sport is badminton, because, "badminton is an individuals sport," Alicia said. Roy has played football, soccer, and baseball at AF for three years. He doesn't have a favorite sport. He likes them all! Roy hopes to continue playing sports through college and maybe even professionally. Alicia isn't sure about continuing sports in college; participation depends on where she goes and if she makes the teams.

Couple Go To College Together.

Lisa Jimenez and Steve Brown, voted Class Couple, have been going together for three years. They both live in Avondale and see a lot of each other during school and after school. Asked what attracted them to each other, they both smiled, and Lisa said, "Steve's personality and body." Steve said, "Lisas' smile, big eyes, personality and of course, her body." They're future plans, for right now, are to finish high school together and then go to college at Phoenix College or Glendale Community college together.

Teacher and Coach, Frank Dudley, competes for the faculty, during the games at the Homecoming bonfire.

After a long day at AF, Shawna Guess, leaves the South Campus, to go to work at the Wigwam's Proshop.

Manuel Cano squats 265 pounds, during his weight training class.

Who goes there?

by Kris Barnes

America has been called the "Melting Pot" for years, because, in this nation all are welcome and all are treated equal. AF is a "little Melting Pot," of it's own, tucked away on the west side of Arizona. At AF are Whites, Blacks, Hispanics, American Indians, Alaskans, Pacific Islanders and Asians. It is obvious that AF students differ in race, just like at other schools, but AF students also differ on the social status levels too. Because there is only one high school, the teenagers from Avondale, Goodyear, and Litchfield Park are forced together at AF. The only way you might be able to tell a Litchfield resident from a Goodyear or Avondale resident is by what a student is or isn't wearing, or by what they are or aren't driving.

In his speech at the opening day assembly, this year, Principal Duane Given stated, "We have all colors, all religions, rich and poor but each one of you is just as important as the person next to you."

Naturally there are some problems between students, just like there are problems between many people during everyday life. In comparison to the other schools in the state, the complications at AF are cut in half, Mr. Given said. AF is an example to the nation, as the nation is to the world, that people can live in peace like "Who goes to AF?" Gets along at AF!

At AF, the students "who" go there get along there.

iors, Paige Skanchy, Sandy and Susie Roehling had a chance to become nds this year. Sandy and Susie were just two of the 24 semester graduates.

Cassi White and Cindy Hill experience those "locker blues," when during the winter time, your lock, locker and everything inside is as cold as you are.

Whoa made it?

Along with a new advisor, the 28th volume of the Wickiup, has a new publishing company, Josten's of Visalia, CA. The cover is a Bright Red Craftline Embossed with a Levant grain. A silver hot foil was applied to the cover and spine. Stainless Steel gray color was chosen for the end sheets. The yearbook has 208 pages which will be followed by a 20 page supplement. Helvetica is the headline typestyle and Korrina is the bodycopy typestyle. 900 copies were printed. The price of the book started at $14 but increased to $20 after delivery.
